VOL. XII—NO. 3588. NEW-YORK, WEDNESDAY, MARCH 25, 1863. PRICE THREE CENTS

IMPORTANT FROM VICKSBURGH.

A New Passage Found into the Yazoo River.

Our Forces Between Haines' Bluff and Yazoo City.

The Rebel Stronghold Completely Flanked.

Reported Appearance of Admiral Farragut Below Vicksburgh.

St. Louis, Tuesday, March 24.

The Democrat learns from a gentleman just from Vicksburgh, that the steamer Diligent, with the Eighth Missouri Regiment, had succeeded in entering Yazoo River above Haines' Bluff. Her course was through Cypress Bayou, which debouches into the Yazoo opposite Johnson's plantation, where Gen. Sherman's troops landed last December; thence through Shelle's Bayou into the Sunflower, which empties into the Yazoo twenty miles above Haines' Bluff. The Diligent was accompanied by a light gunboat.

As soon as it was found possible to get through, four iron-clads followed. Our informant also says that —, thousand men have gone up before this.

Our force can thus be placed between Haines' Bluff and Yazoo City, which will enable us to operate in the rear of the former position, and bring the latter between two fires.

It is also believed that our fleet can navigate the bayous and enter the Yazoo above Yazoo Pass, by which means our gunboats can coöperate with our forces at Greenwood, reduce Fort Pemberton, then throw their combined strength against Yazoo City, and flank the rebel position. Being thus turned Vicksburgh will undoubtedly be evacuated.

The batteries at Haine's Bluff were built to sweep down the river, and are powerless against an attack from above. Confirmation of these tidings is anxiously looked for.

ANOTHER DISPATCH.

The Democrat's special from below, of the 19th, says the rebels continued shelling the canal at Vicksburgh, retarding the prosecution of the work somewhat. The river is falling and the fears of the overflow of the camping ground has subsided.

All is quiet at Greenwood. Both parties are repairing damages. Our present force there is regarded insufficient to reduce the rebel fortifications. The levees are being cut, which, it is thought, would result in driving the rebels out.

Rumors are in circulation of the evacuation of Haine's Bluff, and that the Eighth Missouri has gone up to garrison the place. If this be true, it foreshadows the fall or evacuation of Vicksburgh.

Cairo, Tuesday, March 24.

The Memphis papers of Sunday report another canal or cut-off being opened from the Mississippi, fifty miles below Helena, into Deer River, from Washington Lake, and into Sunflower River, by which access to Yazoo City and Haines Bluff can be had.

It is also reported that two of Farragut's gunboats have reached the lower mouth of the Vicksburgh canal.

One small boat has passed into Lake Providence. The water is rushing into the lake at a rapid rate.

The Federal force at Greenwood is still held in check by the rebel battery.

OUR PORT ROYAL CORRESPONDENCE

The Expedition of the Colored Troops to Florida—The Recapture of Jacksonville—Prospective Movements.

Port Royal, Wednesday, March 18, 1863.

In a late letter I furnished a meagre account of an expedition of colored troops to Florida. A recent arrival from the scene of operations puts me in possession of details which are interesting, and promise important results.

The troops left Beaufort on the 6th inst., in the United States transports Burnside, Boston and John Adams, and consisted of the First Regiment South Carolina Volunteers, Col. T. W. Higginson, and the Second Regiment South Carolina Volunteers, Col. James Montgomery. The destination of the expedition was known to few on board, but it was generally understood that a base of operations was to be established, and measures adopted with a view of encouraging the negroes to flee from their masters, and accept the protection of the United States, and this was sufficient to fill the colored soldiers with earnestness and enthusiasm.

On the 7th, the vessels reached Fernandina, where they were delayed for a day until the plans of the commanders could be properly arranged, and on the morning of the 9th they dropped anchor at the mouth of the St. John's River, under the guns of the naval steamers Uncas, Capt. Watson, and Norwich, Capt. Duncan. The sons of Mars and Neptune then consulted, and were not long in deciding to capture the town of Jacksonville, distant twenty miles up the river, which the fortunes of the war had twice before thrown into our hands, and which we had twice abandoned to the enemy, as it was not worth the holding.

A necessary delay, before attempting the object they had in view, afforded an opportunity for a detachment of a dozen of Col. Montgomery's men to go ashore on a foraging excursion. They proved themselves experts in that line of business, returning in an hour with a fat beef, slung on a pole, that had fallen a victim to good marksmanship. This prize, with a quantity of poultry and vegetables that came with it, and a superabundance of excellent fish, which those on board the vessels took while their comrades were on shore, aided the Commissary's Department, and added visibly to the hilarious good humor.

On the 10th, the expedition steamed up the river. A few miles from the mouth, on the left bank, is the first highland, called St. John's Bluff. At this point, a former expedition was stopped last Summer by a formidable rebel battery commanding the channel. The fortification was subsequently taken by a combined naval and land force, that destroyed the works, and brought away the guns. It was reasonable to suppose that an obstacle to the passage of the fleet would be again found here, and preparations were made for a fight, but no enemy appeared, and not a sign of resistance showed itself during the further progress of the vessels toward the town. At 8 o'clock the steamer John Adams, under cover of the gunboat Uncas, ranged alongside the wharf at Jacksonville, and Col. Higginson jumped ashore, followed by Capt. Dolly's company—the men scrambling off as best they could, neglecting, in their eagerness, to avail themselves of a gang-plank. They immediately formed in marching order, and started on the double quick for the railroad depot. The remainder of the force soon followed, and part of it advanced to the outskirts of the town, and holding the approaches. This movement was executed with such promptness, that the first knowledge of the invasion only came to the townspeople when they saw the black soldiers marching past their dwellings.

As soon as the Burnside was fastened to the wharf, Col. Montgomery, at the head of two companies, pushed out into the woods to find the rebel pickets. He was not long before coming up with a cavalry company, and a brisk skirmish ensued. His men behaved admirably, and routed the enemy, after killing and wounding a dozen or more, one of whom was the Captain, who was shot through the head. His own loss was one killed and two wounded.

It was afterwards ascertained that the town has not recently been occupied by the rebels in force, a picket simply being established there. Three miles from the town there is another and much stronger picket station, while the main body of troops is encamped eight miles further out. Col. Higginson immediately stationed pickets and adopted precautions against surprise, and so the time passed until the next morning without any alarm having been given. A dash was at last made by about 200 of the rebel cavalry, but this force was repulsed, and not a man on our side was injured. In the afternoon a scouting squad of the Carolinians crossed the river, and brought back one prisoner, a rebel flag, four rifles, a horse and a fat ox, finding a large force of the enemy in the woods about two miles from the town.

Col. Higginson's headquarters are at the residence of the rebel Col. Sanderson, a very elegant and commodious building. He was at first constantly pestered with applications on the part of the inhabitants for permission to pass beyond our lines, and in every instance he informed the applicants that if their choice led them to go among the rebels in preference to accepting the protection of the United States, they were privileged to leave. He wished to have his enemies in front where he could fight them. Those who decided upon remaining, must simply take the oath of allegiance and be faithful to their obligations, and their safety would be guaranteed. He had not come to injure, but to protect loyal men—the rebellious alone were to be driven out. After an explanation of this sort, many withdrew their applications.

The Sixth Connecticut regiment and Eighth Maine to-day left Beaufort to relieve the negro regiments at Jacksonville, and will hold that place while Col. Higginson presses on further into the heart of the State.

You have already been informed of the capture of a rebel naval officer named Beville, by his own men, who deserted while on picket duty and brought him off with them. Yesterday a flag of truce was sent down from Savannah with a package of clothing and $100 in gold to meet Beville's necessities, and a draft for $250 more upon Mr. Washington Durbrow, of Hanover-street, New-York, made payable to him in Liverpool, was also forwarded for the same purpose. I understand that an effort will be made to exchange Beville for Lieut. Rush, the signal officer; who was captured by the rebels last week from Spanish Wells Station.

A Disorganizer to be Arrested—The Impending Battle.

Port Royal, S. C., Wednesday, March 18.

An order is to be issued to-day, for the arrest of Lieut.-Col. Gardner, of the Seventh Connecticut Volunteers, who is charged with obtaining, under false pretences, the signatures of a number of men in his regiment to peace resolutions, in order to effect the election at home. It has created great indignation among the regiments from this State, who are loud in their denunciations of peace measures.

Connecticut has the post of honor in the impending great battle. Gen. Ferry commands the Union forces from North Carolina.

Everything indicates success.

OUR KEY WEST CORRESPONDENCE.

An Arrival from Matamoras—Rebel Trade There—Prizes Captured, &c.

Key West, Monday, March 16, 1863.

The schooner I. L. Garritz is here from Matamoras, bound to New-York, with a full cargo of cotton and hides, and reports a large trade going on at Matamoras. When will our Government put a stop to this Texas trade by an army on the Rio Grande, which would be gladly hailed by thousands of the German population of that State.

The sloop Relampaga was brought in on Sunday, the 15th, having been captured by the schooner James S. Chambers, near Charlotte Harbor, Fla., with coffee, salt and sundries, and a Spanish flag, with seven stars in it. The Chambers had also captured another small schooner, the Ida, being compelled to use her completely up with shot before the rebels would surrender her. The cargo was saved.

By the United States transport steamer Mississippi, just in from New-Orleans, we learn that Gen. Banks and Admiral Farragut had both gone up the river with the fleet. She will carry this mail to New-York, and of course your full correspondence from New-Orleans.

The large English screw steamer Peterhoff, which arrived here a few days since as prize to the United States steamer Vanderbilt, is about to leave for Boston, to have her case adjudicated there. This is a very important case, involving a great value of property, and possibly damages for the detention and delay. It is, therefore, matter of regret that our Prize Court is not at home, and in good working order. The Marshal has gone to New-York, in charge of a large amount of prize property. The Judge and District Attorney are absent on business, concerning which the public are not fully advised, and I am unable to state.

There are at present very few vessels in our harbor, many having gone to sea within a few days. Those now here are the flag-ship St. Lawrence, sloop-of-war Dale, bark James L. Davis, steamers Magnolia, Sagamore and Mississippi. Merchant vessels—barks George Thomas and N. Boynton, schooners John S. Lee, I. L. Garritz, Medora and Franklin Bell.

The steamer McClellan, Capt. Gray, arrived, and left for New-Orleans on the 14th, and reports a Dutch brig ashore on French Reef, near Carysport, with signals set for assistance. The wreckers have gone up to her.

F.

Key West, Fla., Tuesday, March 10, 1863.

The United States gunboat Sagamore came into the harbor to-day, with the prize schooner Charm in tow, containing twenty-nine bales of cotton. The Charm was captured in Indian River by an expedition of seven Union refugees sent from the Sagamore.

These seven refugees captured the schooner and twelve prisoners in her, and succeeded in getting safely down the river to the protection of the United States bark Gem of the Seas.

The Sagamore captured a small sloop with four bales of cotton, on March 8, near Cape Florida.

The Sagamore sent an expedition into Mosquito Inlet, near Smyrna, Fla., on March 2, for the purpose of cutting out a schooner loaded with cotton.

The rebels set the schooner on fire before the boats could get to her, and the flames could not be subdued.

The enemy fired upon the boats, and the boats returned the fire briskly for half an hour.

The following are the names of the killed and wounded belonging to the Sagamore:

Killed—1. Hugh Maguire, seaman.

Slightly Wounded—2. Mr. Franklin E. Ford, master's mate—hip; Timothy Sullivan, coal-heaver—leg.

Burning of the Old National Theatre, Boston.

Boston, Tuesday, March 24.

The Old National Theatre, corner of Portland and Traverse streets, was destroyed by fire early this morning.

Boston, Tuesday, March 24.

The National Theatre, burned this morning, cost $45,000. It was owned by William Schier and leased by William B. English. The most valuable properties had been removed to Jane English's new Tremont Theatre. The artists of the establishment lost most of their wardrobes.

IMPORTANT FROM WASHINGTON.

The Retreat of the Rebels from the Rappahannock.

The Troops Massed in the Defences Around Richmond.

Heavy Rebel Losses in the Late Cavalry Fight.

REBEL GUERRILLAS AT CHANTILLY.

OUR SPECIAL WASHINGTON DISPATCHES.

Washington, Tuesday, March 24.

THE REBELS FALLING BACK.

Refugees who arrived within our lines yesterday confirm the statement that the rebel army is falling back from Fredericksburgh, and being massed in the defences near Richmond. They represent the entire force left at Fredericksburgh on Sunday night to have been only eight thousand. They also confirm the Times' news that the gunmaking machinery and ordnance stores are being rapidly removed from Richmond into Georgia; that the withdrawal of families from the city has fully set in, and that sales of property are being forced to a ruinous loss. They also state that the acknowledged loss, deplored by cavalry soldiers in Richmond, sustained in the recent thrashing Averill gave them, was between four and five hundred killed and wounded. Among the killed was Col. Lagranee, of North Carolina.

REBEL GUERRILLAS AT CHANTILLY.

The rebel guerrillas came again to-day down on our line at Chantilly, and made a feint of attack. Seventy of our cavalry dashed at them, chased them a mile or so, till in passing through a wood they received a flank fire from behind thickets and a barricade. Our cavalry wheeled and fled, pursued by the enemy; were reinforced, rallied, and again chased the rebels to a distance of eight miles.

THE NEWS FROM ABROAD.

Letters by the last steamer, from Paris and London, represent that Mr. Seward's dispatch, rejecting the proffer of mediation, was kindly received, and will put to rest all further overtures of a similar kind.

THE GOVERNMENT FINANCES.

The demand for the five-twenty bonds continues to increase daily, and the Departmental forces engaged in preparing them is insufficient to furnish the supply The subscriptions received to-day were one million, one hundred thousand. It is thought they will soon run up to a million and a half a day.

THE GENERALS NOT CONFIRMED.

It is understood that five Major-Generals and some twenty-three Brigadier-Generals in the large list of military nominees sent to the Senate, most of them in actual command, were not confirmed or were positively rejected. Some Senators have said that the effect of this rejection will be in every case, where the President does not immediately reappoint them, to throw them wholly out of the service, and to render all their acts illegal since the adjournment of the Senate unless reappointed, nunc pro tunc. It would certainly be unfortunate for those unconfirmed officers, who have lately whipped bodies of the rebels, or who are on the eve of doing so, to have their doings declared illegal.

GOV. CURTIN VISITING THE PENNSYLVANIANS.

Gov. Curtin, accompanied by Col. Puleston and other promient Pennsylvanians, went to-night to Aquia Creek in a boat placed at their disposal by the War Department, to visit all the regiments from Pennsylvania under Gen. Hooker's command.

REVENUE DECISION.

In regard to the amendment to the Excise law, that "No stamp duty shall be required on powers of attorney or any other papers relating to applications for bounties, arrearages of pay, or pensions, or to receipt thereof from time to time," acting Commissioner Estes has decided that it exempts from stamp duty all papers relating to applications for bounties, arrearages of pay or pensions, whether such applications are made by or on behalf of officers or privates of the army, or officers of marines, or sailors of the navy, or of other persons who are or at time of such application may have been in the service of the United States. But it cannot be construed to exempt from stamp duty applicants of claims for prize money, or papers relating to such applications of claims.

INHUMAN TREATMENT OF PRISONERS BY THE REBELS.

Testimony was taken in the War Department, to-day, of discharged National prisoners, showing the inhuman treatment in the Libby Prison of some of Gen. Mitchel's troops, captured while destroying railroad bridges, and subsequently executed after a sham trial. Retaliatory measures will have to be adopted.

PROMPT PUNISHMENT.

Punishment has promptly followed the culpable remissness in duty that led to the surprise of our pickets on the Ox road, Feb. 26. Capt. Hunton, First Vermont cavalry, on Gen. Heintzelman's indorsement that he was entirely unfit to be an officer, has been dismissed the service. Second Lieut. John Nelson, Eighteenth Pennsylvania cavalry, would have encountered the same fate had he not been supposed to be mortally wounded.

CONTRACTS FOR FLOUR.

Contracts for furnishing flour were awarded on Saturday—To Rowland & Erben, 4,000 barrels No. 3, at $8 25; 2,000 barrels No. 2, at $8 70. Benj. Darby, 1,000 barrels No. 3, at $8 00. Robt. Hodgson, 8,000 barrels No. 2, at $8 65. Francis A. Gibbon, 1,000 barrels No. 2, at $8 64; and 1,000 barrels No. 2, at $8 68. Geo. Waters, 1,000 barrels No. 3, at $8 30. Nathan Brooke, 2,000 barrels No. 2, at $8 40; 3,000 barrels No. 2, at $8 65; 2,000 barrels No. 2, at $8 50; 3,000 barrels No. 2, at $8 70; 500 barrels No. 3, at $8; 1,000 barrels No. 3, at $8 15, and 500 barrels No. 3, at $8 10. The total amount offered is 97,517 barrels; accepted, 27,200 barrels. Some bidders lost their chance to get contracts by informal bids and insufficient security, others by non-fulfillment of previous contracts.

REBEL PRISONERS.

Another batch of rebel prisoners will soon be sent to City Point for exchange. Commissary-Gen. Hoffman says that the balance of this trade is now largely in our favor.

THE MORMONS.

Utah affairs were discussed to-day in an interview between Gen. Nye, the President, and the Secretary of War. The Government hesitates in deciding upon its policy toward the Mormons. Gen. Nye urges prompt and thorough dealings with them. As a precautionary measure, the Secretary of War has issued an order allowing Gen. Nye to take to Nevada, which borders upon Utah, a thousand stand of arms, three howitzers, and a large number of cavalry accoutrements.

SICK AND WOUNDED SOLDIERS.

Surgeon J. R. Smith has, by order of Surgeon-General Hammond, directed a letter to Medical Director Abbott, directing him to take the necessary measures to cause the transfer to general hospitals nearest to their homes, of all sick and wounded soldiers who have been sick for three months and upward, and who are in a fit state to bear such transportation; these transfers to be made in detachments of about fifty under charge of the proper officers, and with due attention to the welfare of the sick thus transferred.

A MISTAKE.

Louisville, Tuesday, March 24

The rebels reported, from 3,000 to 10,000 strong, with a much larger force following them, have taken possession of Danville. They crossed the Cumberland River viâ Mill Spring to Somerset. There are no rebels at Glasgow or Mumfordsville, or that section of the State.

FROM THE ARMY OF THE POTOMAC.

Another Severe Storm—A Consolidation, &c.

Correspondence of the New-York Times.

Headquarters Army of the Potomac,
Saturday Evening, March 21, 1863.

Another severe storm has raged yesterday and to-day. The ground is covered to-night with several inches of snow, and the view from my tent door reminds one strongly of the old "Berkshire Hills" in the month of December or January. Inhabitants who have resided here all their lives inform me that they have never before experienced such a backward Spring. Nearly every season they have begun planting operations several days before this. All this will, of course, retard the forward movement, which the country is anxiously waiting for us to commence.

The First Brigade in Gen. Howe's Second Division, Sixth Corps, has just been consolidated with the Third Brigade, Gen. Newton's First Division, same corps.

Lieut. Adam King, of the Thirty-first New-York, has received a Captaincy, and been appointed Acting Adjutant-General of "Pratt's Division," vice Henry Keith, compelled to resign owing to ill-health.

First Lieut. W. E. White, of the Forty-third New-York, has been promoted to a Captaincy, and placed in command of Company A.

R. H. Stout, private in the Fifth Wisconsin, has been promoted to a Second Lieutenancy in Company K.

The Case of Gen. Stoughton.

Vergennes, Vt., Saturday, March 21, 1863.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

I observe that E. W. Stoughton, Esq., of your City, has a communication in your columns, in which he speaks of my own as "purporting to have been written in some part of the State of Vermont by a person pretending to have received a letter from Fairfax Court-house predicting the capture of Gen. Stoughton," and further says, "whether such a letter was written is questionable." He charges me with "unfounded statements" and "malicious insinuations," and classes me among "the zealous politicians of narrow views." He then adds:

> "I do not know its author's name or residence, and I probably never shall. If you can furnish them to me, I shall take pleasure in sending my check to your order for $250, (two hundred and fifty dollars,) to be applied by you for the benefit of the New-England Soldiers' Relief Association, under the charge of Col. Howe, of this City, or to any other benevolent purpose in which you may feel an interest."

Not knowing the author's name or residence, it is extraordinary that he should be so free in his personal imputations. My original communication was accompanied with my name and residence. You will please communicate them at once to Mr. Stoughton, and thereby confer a favor upon him, and perhaps Col. Howe.

For my statements I am responsible. For my motives I have simply to say that they were such as should impel any loyal citizen under such circumstances. Twelve hours before the intelligence of Gen. Stoughton's capture was announced in this State, a letter was received predicting the whole affair, with remarkable accuracy. Had the letter been the simple opinion of a soldier, in respect to the unmilitary character of an officer, it would have been unworthy of notice. What gave it its significance was the exact fulfillment of its predictions. At the time I sent it to you, I knew nothing of Gen. Stoughton—nothing whatever of his political or military antecedents. I had not even heard that his name was before the Senate for confirmation as a Brigadier-General—nothing whatever of all that which is gratuitously urged by Mr. Stoughton, of New-York, as furnishing motives for the communication, which, in fact, was written solely at my own instance for what I conceived to be a public good.

Since my former communication, I have observed in one of the Vermont papers the following extract from the letter of another soldier, dated a fortnight before the capture:

> "'Is it military,' that Gen. Stoughton, who commands the Second Vermont brigade, should have his headquarters five miles away from his command? We are aware that brick houses are not as plenty where the troops are encamped as at the C. H. But it seems strange that a General should be so far separated from his men, and in such an exposed position besides.
> One would suppose that the last 'raid' would have been a lesson to him. For all that we can see the rebels might make a dash any night and take the General, headquarters and all, and get away before his brigade would be any the wiser."

It seems that he, too, could predict with great precision.

THE WAR IN TENNESSEE.

Rebel Reconnoissances and Picket Skirmishing Along the Front.

Proposed Evacuation of Vicksburgh and Concentration of the Rebel Forces.

Cincinnati, Tuesday, March 24.

The Commercial has a special dispatch from Murfreesboro, which gives the following intelligence:

Within the last four days the rebels have made several reconnoissances, causing considerable picket skirmishing along our whole front. They do not appear anxious, however, to bring on a general engagement.

Reliable information from the South represents that the evacuation of Vicksburgh is being advocated, for strategic reasons, prominent rebels declaring that by withdrawing their troops, from Vicksburgh, and massing them in Middle Tennessee, they can oblige Gen. Rosecrans to repeat the movements of Gen. Buell last year.

Small parties of guerrillas have appeared along the Nashville Railroad attempting to capture our trains. No serious damage so far, has been done to the road, which is heavily guarded.

THE LATEST REBEL NEWS.

All Quiet at Charleston on the 22d.

AFFAIRS IN TENNESSEE.

Headquarters Army of the Potomac,
Tuesday, March 24, 1863.

The Richmond Enquirer and Sentinel, of this morning, has the following:

Charleston, Sunday, March 22.

The enemy have been shelling the wreck of the Georgianna, off Long Island beach. Otherwise, all is quiet.

The Enquirer says:

"By a dispatch from Charleston we learn that no attack is expected, except immediately before the highest Spring tide, which will be on the 2d of April. The reason is the enemy cannot venture upon Charleston without being sure of a coming Spring tide to float off their ships in the case of any of them coming aground.

The Savannah Republican says many poor women and children in that city are suffering for want of food, and cannot get enough corn meal because railroad transportation is monopolized by the Government.

AFFAIRS IN TENNESSEE.

Chattanooga, Wednesday, March 18.

Intelligence by mail states that our scouts have been within four miles of Murfreesboro, and report that the enemy is retreating from there. Probably a flank movement is in the wind.

Gen. Johnston and Staff have gone to Tullahoma, which will hereafter be his permanent headquarters, Johnston himself assuming personal command.

Rumor says Rosecrans has sent a large force to oppose Longstreet's advance through Kentucky.

In the lower rebel House on Monday, the Committee of Ways and Means reported a bill for direct taxation and internal duties.

All midshipmen in the Confederate service are ordered to report at Richmond, Charleston, Savannah, Wilmington and Mobile next month for examination.

The following is a significant paragraph of the Enquirer's leader, headed "Signs in the Northwest:"

"Although it is altogether out of the question while the whole North is engaged in a war for subjugation or extermination that we should offer terms of alliance, still less listen to any hint about Union with them; yet it is no less true that the symptoms of disorganization, which show themselves in the present Federal States are of deep interest to us, and that we ought even to do all that we honorably and loyally may to give further impulse to the force which promises at some future time to break up the league of our enemies."

The Virginia Ligislature has passed the Salt bill. In effect, that if acceptable terms cannot be made with the owners of salt property, the latter is to be impressed, and be worked on State account.

Several of the largest tobacco growing counties of Virginia have held a public meeting, and resolved to cultivate no tobacco the present year.

There is no late news from Vicksburgh or other prominent points.

A steady rain set in at dusk.

All is quiet along the lines.

The Obsequies of Gen. Sumner.

THE FUNERAL TO TAKE PLACE TO-DAY—HIS BODY LYING IN STATE YESTERDAY.

Syracuse, N. Y., Tuesday, March 24.

The body of Major-Gen. Sumner was removed from his residence to the City Hall at 9½ o'clock this morning, under a military escort from the Fifty-first regiment, and to the sound of muffled drums, where it remains in state the entire day, and is being visited by thousands of our citizens, and many others coming in from the country.

The body is lying upon a catafalque under a canopy handsomely decorated with flowers, interspersed with the emblems of mourning and draped with numerous flags.

The massive burial case is adorned with bouquets of natural flowers, and entwined with the Stars and Stripes.

A military guard is on duty over the remains, and will escort the body back to the house to-night.

The funeral will take place at 11 o'clock to-morrow forenoon, and will be the most imposing affair of the kind ever witnessed in Western or Central New-York.

About twenty thousand people visited the remains during the day.

DEPARTMENT OF THE GULF.

A Successful Reconnoissance of the Country West of Baton Rouge and Port Hudson—Surprise of the People.

Correspondence of the New-York Times.

New-Orleans, Sunday, March 1, 1863.

Col. Currie, at present commanding at Plaquemine, having been ordered to thoroughly reconnoitre the country west of Baton Rouge and Port Hudson, left Indian Village for that purpose on the 23d ult. with 500 men belonging to the One Hundred and Thirty-third New-York regiment, 40 of the First regular artillery, (24 of whom were to serve as cavalry,) and four men-of-war launches, under the command of Lieut.-Com. Watson, of the Hartford. The force embarked on a couple of stern-wheel steamers and proceeded slowly up the Bayou Grosse Tête, which flows into the Bayou Plaquemine, after draining a rich and fertile region west of Baton Rouge and Port Hudson. For at least ten miles both banks of the Grosse Tête were entirely overflowed, presenting the appearance of a lake. The Confederates had attempted to obstruct the channel, but owing to the high stage of water the steamers easily glided over the sunken logs and felled trees, and followed the narrow and winding avenue between the cypress and oaks now just beginning to put forth their leaves but perennially dressed with the moss which makes melancholy the forests of the South.

The force landed at 8 P. M., and pushed forward to the village of Rosedale, some nine miles up the Bayou, and leaving the steamers to follow in the morning.

Capt. Allaire, of Company E, with twenty men, had been sent up in skiffs early in the day, with orders to seize horses, and push forward some of his men to the terminus of the railroad, near Levonia. We reached Rosedale about 11 P. M. The launches came up during the night. Early the following morning Capts. Allaire, Olcott, King and Reed, with their respective companies, and Lieut. Norris, in charge of twenty cavalry, proceeded to Levonia, ten miles further up the Bayou. Capts. Olcott and Reed held the post during the reconnoissance. Capt. King crossed the Grosse Tête, and reached Folse River, twenty three miles from Rosedale.

The improvised cavalry reached Morganza, on the Mississippi River, about twenty miles above Port Hudson. Capt. Allaire penetrated to within two miles of Morgan's Ferry, on the Atchafalaya River where the road was found to be impassable. No trace of the enemy being discovered, all the scouting parties rendezvoused at Levonia, at midnight, and returned to Rosedale. Some of the men marched over forty, and the cavalry rode over eighty miles, in twenty-four hours. One object of the expedition, also was to destroy the railroad running from West Baton Rouge to Levonia, and graded nearly to Opelousas. It was found that the high water of last year had broken up the road. The track between West Baton Rouge and Rosedale is now submerged for a distance of several miles. Three locomotives, not in running order, and twelve cars, were found at the western terminus of the road.

The people all along the different routes were taken completely by surprise. No depredations whatever were committed, and I have no doubt that the inhabitants would prefer to have Col. Currie remain with them, to being the prey of the marauding parties of Confederates from Port Hudson and the Atchafalaya.

The object of the expedition having been accomplished, Col. Currie embarked his men and left Rosedale at 11 A. M. Within an hour 50 Confederate cavalry were in Rosedale, the advance of a large force dispatched from Port Hudson to surprise our small party. The Grosse Tête region is now occupied by a considerable rebel force, and will, doubtless, be held by them until the camp at Port Hudson is broken up.

Col. Currie is an Englishman, having held the rank of Brigade-Major in the British army, and saw much service in the Crimea. He performed the reconnoissance with great skill and credit to himself and men.

The Movement Up the River—Rumors from Port Hudson.

Correspondence of the New-York Times.

New-Orleans, Thursday, March 12, 1863.

The city, for the last few days, has been full of all sorts of rumors regarding rebel movements about Port Hudson, but I have heard nothing that I deemed worthy of especial notice. One thing, however, is significant. On Saturday afternoon, May 7, Gen. Banks and Staff left this place for Baton Rouge, and, on examining the harbor yesterday, I found that most of the fleet, including the flagship Hartford, had gone up the river. If Admiral Farragut has made a movement, there may be something in the wind. I should, perhaps, also mention that I have been wont for months to pass Tivoli Circle, where has been encamped hard on a year a battery of flying artillery. The tents had become tiresome to my eyes, from their sameness of form and position. I knew all the men by sight, and their listlessness and mechanical way of going about their business was painful. I had begun to pray that something might happen to that encampment, just for the sake of variety, when, the other morning, I found the men singing songs and skylarking across the green. I heard several laugh loud and hearty, and the bugle call for parade had a vim in it that was quite refreshing. In the evening Tivoli Circle was deserted; the battery had gone to Baton Rouge. All this pleasant excitement I witnessed was the natural result of the preparatory move. Oh! the horrors of unvarying camp life.

THE ATTACK ON PORT HUDSON.

An Important Correction in the Dispatch from Southwest Pass—Commodore Farragut Passes the Rebel Batteries with the Hartford.

The dispatch received from Washington on Monday, dated "Southwest Pass, La., March 15," should read as follows:

"Commodore Farragut, leading in the Hartford, passed the Port Hudson batteries at 11 o'clock last night."

The error was made in transmitting the dispatch over the wires.

INDIAN EXPEDITION TO TEXAS.

Many Texans Killed, and Much Property Captured and Destroyed.

Kansas City, Tuesday, March 24.

A gentleman just From Santa Fé states that a large body of Indians, consisting of Camanches, Navajoes and other Border tribes, have returned from an expedition to Texas, where they captured 600 horses, a large number of cattle, destroyed much property, and killed many Texans.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

The Death of Mr. Haws.

REPUBLICAN CENTRAL COMMITTEE OF THE CITY AND COUNTY OF NEW-YORK.

At a special meeting held Tuesday evening, March 24, 1863, the President, Mr. DARLING, announced the death of Hon. ROBERT T. HAWS, whereupon the following preamble and resolutions, presented by E. DELAFIELD SMITH, were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, At the call of our President, we have assembled, as the representatives of the Republicans of the City of New-York, to offer a tribute of respect and affection to the memory of ROBERT T. HAWS; therefore,

Resolved, That not in the terms of a cold formality, but in the sorrowing language of the heart, we desire to testify our sense of the purity and nobility which characterized him whose untimely death has just been announced. We would not mourn him as partisans, for his fidelity to principle was so softened by the amenities of his nature as to make the entire community mourners at his bier. Yet as loyal Americans we cannot but grieve that a citizen so useful and a patriot so true could not have been spared in this day of national gloom. When such men are taken, the dependence of our country upon the God of our fathers is brought upon us with new emphasis.

Resolved, That in all his relations, both public and private, as a man and a public officer, ROBERT T. HAWS had few peers and no superior. As a member of the Board of Health, during the ravages of the cholera of 1849 and '50, he developed a tenderness and fidelity, a courage and humanity, which must ever endear his name to the sick and the suffering; while the commanding ability and the unswerving integrity demonstrated by him during a long term as Comptroller of our City finances placed him in the front rank of our public men. And while we grieve over his death as that of a friend and associate, we sorrow over the loss sustained by the country in the death of one so eminently qualified for exalted public station.

Resolved, That as a testimonial of the sentiments with which this Committee have received the sad tidings of the death of Mr. HAWS, the members will attend his funeral, and will cherish, with undying fidelity, and as a priceless heritage, his noble example of manliness and truth.

> "Tears fell when he was dying
> From eyes unused to weep;
> And long where he is lying
> Shall tears the cold turf steep."

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions, properly authenticated, be transmitted to the family of the deceased, and be published in the public newspapers.

Character of the late Comptroller Haws.

When in 1858, the late lamented ROBERT T. HAWS was a candidate for City Comptroller, an address was published in the newspapers advocating the election of the ticket headed by his name. That address which was prepared by E. DELAFIELD SMITH, Esq., attracted much attention at the time, from the force and ability with which it was written. The following extract, in which Mr. HAWS is eulogized, will now be read with interest. Its subject has passed away from the midst of a sorrowing community, having more than verified the glowing predictions with which the writer accompanied his praise of the character and capacity of his associate and friend:

"In ROBERT T. HAWS are united two great elements of public usefulness, integrity and experience. Of these it is not uncommon to discover one in a public candidate, but of both, rare is the union. As it would be idle to dispatch a regiment of raw recruits to storm a castle swarming with a disciplined corps of mercenary soldiers, so it is folly to march upon our City Hall an unpracticed troop of well-intentioned citizens to rout the trained bands of an official army. One searching, distinguishing, practiced eye, at the head of the financial department, is worth a hundred zealous friends of retrenchment in the legislative branches of the City Government. While, for years, we have attempted to repair the various pipes and conduits through which the treasury has flowed, we have forgotten to renew the rusty reservoir at the fountain head. With a shrewd knowledge of men, Mr. HAWS unites a grasp and originality of intellect which would operate at once to systematize the financial bureau, and insure the coöperation of reliable subordinates. Our citizens are fortunate in the means of securing such a successor to the present venerable incumbent of the Comptroller's office. Like the silkworm, a New-York official weaves for himself a robe of richness, drawing its substance, however, not from his own resources, but from the public treasury. We want a man with the discriminating courage to stop the supply, and strip these preying worms, until they shall be exposed, in famishing deformity, to public reprobation. Nor is it essential that the City's just obligations should be fearlessly met in order that honest creditors shall not be enlisted, with their friends, upon the side of those who seek to relax the public purse. While ROBERT T. HAWS is endeared to the young men of this Metropolis, he is no stranger to old, substantial citizens, who have matured with the growing greatness of New-York. Of original Knickerbocker extraction, he commenced a career of successful usefulness as a boy clerk, and advanced to positions of trust, until New-York numbered him among the first of her merchants. Retiring, with a wealth of character, to enjoy a justly earned immunity from the demands of mercantile life, he was widely recognized as one of the most solid and unostentatious of those to whom New-York is proud to point when strangers assail her. A quiet, unobtrusive life of judicious liberality, like an underground fountain, at times reveals itself, and commands recognition. The neighbors of Mr. HAWS perceived his qualifications, and pressed him into the public service. As an Alderman, he realized the character which our annals portray as borne by the City Fathers of other years, when the position was one of unqualified distinction. His voice was never the medium of spoilsmen in the lobby, nor his vote the executor of their schemes. He sought no applause by blind denunciation, and was free to advocate and uphold whatever commended itself to an enlightened acceptance.

A member of the Board of Health, when the cholera drove his former mercantile associates to the hillside and the mountain, his voice responded to the roll-call with the certainty and precision of one of BONAPARTE's Old Guard."

The Lock Enlargement.

MEETING AT THE PRODUCE EXCHANGE.

A large meeting of produce merchants was held yesterday afternoon at the Produce Exchange, to facilitate the removal of grain from the West to the this City, by procuring the enlargement of locks of the Erie Canal to correspond with the size of the Canal. The meeting comprised many of our best known produce merchants.

Mr. JAMES P. WALLACE, President of the Corn Exchange, called the meeting to order, and stated its object, which was to induce the Legislature of the State in making its appropriations for the remaining locks of the western division of the Erie Canal, to have them so enlarged as to meet the growing demands of the West. He said that a preliminary meeting had been held and a Committee appointed to draft suitable resolutions, and Gen. WALBRIDGE, as Chairman of that Committee, would make a report.

Gen. WALBRIDGE then said that the growth of the trade and commerce of the great cities of the Atlantic seaboard could be traced in a corresponding ratio to the facilities that had been offered for connecting them with the trade and commerce of the interior; and that the State of New-York, having taken the earliest measures, in the construction of the Erie and Oswego Canals, thereby gained the commerce which grew out of the productions of the great West. Our prosperity was, in a great part, owing to this fact, and it was now the duty of the Legislature to take the measures proposed to preserve that commerce.

He urged the necessity of enlarging the locks, and held that if this were not done, the outlet of the produce would be, to some extent at least, by the Georgian Bay route. Besides the interest of the city, it was the dictate of the highest wisdom for us to open such facilities for the transportation of the grain of the West that it could be laid down in Europe at less expense than that for which food could be produced in Europe. When this was done, we had created perpetual peace between the two hemispheres.

Mr. GEORGE S. HAZARD, President of the Board of Trade of Chicago, was called upon and made a brief speech. He said the greatness of New-York was in no small degree owing to the fact that her port was the outlet of the grain of the West, and expressed his belief that that region was worth more to New-York than the Indies to the cities of Europe. In conclusion, he referred to the fact that we should cheapen food; we could afford to have cotton at one hundred dollars per pound—we could not afford to have food increased to eight times its normal value. He favored early action to induce the Legislature to act promptly.

Gen. WALBRIDGE offered resolutions expressive of the spirit of the meeting, and called for the appointment of a Committee to coöperate with the Committee from the Board of Trade of Buffalo—Messrs. HAZARD and PROSSER—and to meet the Joint Committee of the Legislature, and confer in reference to this subject. The resolutions were unanimously adopted, and a Committee appointed, of which DAVID DOWS is Chairman, and among the other members are JAMES P. WALLACE, HIRAM WALBRIDGE, M. M. CALEB, E. E. MORGAN, and about ten other gentlemen.

The utmost harmony prevailed, and a determination was evinced to do all that could be done to forward the objects of the gathering.

Description of the Quintard Battery Onondaga.

All the iron-clad vessels building for the United States Government, save two, are, we believe, constructed from plans furnished by Capt. ERICSSON, and, as a matter of course, bear a certain resemblance to each other. The two exceptions are the Keokuk and Onondaga. The former has been already described in detail. Of the latter, nothing has been hitherto printed in these columns. She was designed by the proprietor of the Morgan Iron Works, Mr. GEORGE QUINTARD, and [illegible] Mr. [illegible]. She will be launched in a few weeks.

The Onondaga is so like the Monitors of the Passaic class that a superficial observer would be at a loss to discover a difference between them. She has two turrets, will carry two guns in each, and has plates eleven inches thick on the turrets, which, like all the others, are 9 feet high, and 21 feet in diameter. The chief characteristic of this vessel is that, instead of having an overhanging frame forward and aft, the armor is laid on the regular hull. When the Monitor was conceived, it was desirable to finish her as rapidly as possible. As there were difficulties in the way of protecting her forward and aft at the curve of the hull, a sort of shelf was made to the body of the craft, to make her lines straight, so that the plates could be fastened on, as though the hull were a square box. The addition alluded to overhangs, and this is the "overhang" which is said to have been so troublesome in the sea which foundered our first iron-clad. The absence of this is the most important peculiarity of Mr. QUINTARD's ship. He has followed Capt. ERICSSON's idea as to weight of armor, number of guns, &c. The Onondaga is 226 feet long, 26 feet longer than the Passaic, and 48 feet beam. The frames are of angle iron, five inches by three, riveted to a central keel or plate at the bottom. The draft of water will be 10 feet, and it is hoped the speed will be 10 knots. The frames of the hull are joined to a nominal keel.

The machinery consists of horizontal, back-acting engines, with cylinders 30 inches in diameter by 18 inches stroke. There are two propellers or screws, each propeller being driven by two engines. The propellers are 9 feet in diameter, and have an increasing pitch, which is 11 feet forward and 13 feet 6 inches aft. There are four Martin's boilers and a donkey one; four blowing engines for ventilating purposes are attached. The officers' quarters generally are aft, as are the magazine, spirit and store rooms.

On the whole there is no striking novelty about the vessel. She differs, as has been already stated, from other iron-clads, more on account of not possessing than from possessing qualities. She will not be ready for sea before the expiration of the Summer.

WHO WANTS A LITTLE GIRL?—At the Howard Mission and Home for Little Wanderers any respectable and Christian family can find a sweet little girl, eighteen months old, who wants a mother. Is there not some mother who will take her?

Councilman Bride moved that such resolution be referred to the Committee on Law.

Which was carried.

Councilman Jones then offered the following preamble and resolution, viz:

Whereas, A bill has been introduced into the Legislature of the State, proposing to extend the terms of office of certain of the heads of departments of the City Government, occupying the most important and arduous positions therein, which require, on the part of new incumbents, great labor and attention, and much time, to become familiar with the best mode of conducting the business of the same, and to acquire a knowledge of the most economical and expeditious manner of administering the affairs placed in their hands to the greatest advantage for the interest of their constituents; and

Whereas, The evils of the very short terms of office now allowed have ever been apparent, not only in the inconvenience and great cost attendant upon frequent elections, but also in the injury and delays caused by the displacing of tried and practiced incumbents, who, by experience, have become thoroughly fitted to fill their positions, to put in their steads others without that acquaintance with the administration of the affairs intrusted to them, which is so necessary and desirable for the general good, not to refer to the absence of incitement to ambition and exertion which must naturally result from an official's consciousness that he is likely to be set aside at the expiration of his present short term, as opposed to a knowledge that his position is a fixed one for a period that will allow him to demonstrate his ability and zeal for the public welfare; and

Whereas, Such action by the Legislature as the extending or shortening of the terms of office of heads of departments in this City is no new thing, but has been had in several instances, as for example in the case of the City Chamberlain (for which see Laws of 1861, chapter 186.) And the constitutionality of the same has been admitted; and

Whereas, The said bill has been favorably reported by the Committee to whom it was referred, and ordered to be considered in an early Committee of the Whole House, thus showing that it is favorably entertained by the Legislature; therefore,

Resolved, That the Senators and Members of Assembly from this City be requested to make known and press upon the Legislature the favorable feeling of this Board toward said bill, and their desire that the same should be passed at the present session.

Resolved, That the Clerk of this Board be and he hereby is directed to forward forthwith a copy of the foregoing preamble and resolution to the Governor of the State, and to each of the Senators and Assemblymen from this city.

Councilman Brice moved that said paper be referred to the Committee on Law Department.

Which was lost.

Councilman Hayes moved to strike out the preamble preceding the resolutions.

Which was lost.

And the preamble and resolutions were adopted.

(The President here resumed the Chair.)

Rights of the Assignees of a Mortgage—A Judgment Creditor of the Assignor is Entitled to his Equities.

SUPERIOR COURT—GENERAL TERM.

Before Justices Bosworth, Moncrief and Robertson.

Joseph W. Hartley vs. Benjamin Totham and Wife.—This action was brought to foreclose a mortgage dated 30th May, 1861, executed by Michael Cunningham and wife to Samuel W. Dunscomb, and by the latter assigned to the plaintiff May 13, 1862.

The defence was founded, in part, on the allegation, that while Dunscomb owned the mortgage, one Alfred A. Aiment, who, by a written contract with one Higginson, to which Dunscomb was a party, had contracted for a deed of the premises in question, subject to this and a prior mortgage of $4,000, by agreement between him and Dunscomb, performed work and labor to the amount of $490 03, in part payment of the mortgage. That, in execution of such written contract, the deed, at Aiment's request, was executed to Totham, instead of Aiment, Jan. 26, 1861. The habendum clause to the deed was "to have and to hold," &c., subject, however, to a certain other indenture of mortgage for $1,500, dated May 30, 1861, and recorded, being the mortgage in question. The deed does not declare that Totham is to pay this mortgage, nor did the agreement between Higginson and Aiment require him to do it. That stipulates for a deed of the premises to Aiment, free and clear of all incumbrances "except the said sum of $5,500." Aiment was to do the plumbing work to the amount of $3,600 for Higginson, as a consideration for such conveyance, and do the work. The agreement between Aiment and Dunscomb for doing the work, &c., amounting to $490 03, was made prior to January, 1862, and was completed as early as April 8, 1862; and on the 3d of May, 1862, Aiment assigned to Totham his claim. The assignment recites that the work, &c., creating the debt, was done for Dunscomb upon his agreement to credit the amount on this mortgage. The assignment of the mortgage to the plaintiff was made on the 13th of May, 1862. The important question was whether Totham was entitled to credit for this sum upon the mortgage.

That if the mortgagor had paid $493 03 on the mortgage before it was assigned, the assignee would necessarily have taken it subject to such payment. But it was considered that this equity in behalf of Aiment & Totham was a latent one, in a third person, and one existing between him and the mortgagee only, and that the assignee could not be affected by it.

The Court below (Special Term) excluded evidence tending to show that Totham had made such payment, and the trial resulted adversely to him.

The Court now, per BOSWORTH, Chief Justice, reversed the judgment, holding the true rule to be: "The assignees of a mortgage take it subject to the same equity that it was subject to in the hands of the assignor, and the rule that it is only an equity residing in the original debtor, and not the latent equities of third persons against the assignor that have this effect, does not exclude any one who so far stands in the place of the debtor as to have acquired his equity. It does not exclude a judgment creditor of the debtor claiming to redeem. (Roosevelt vs. Bank of Niagara, Hopk. R., 579; United States vs. Sturgis, 1 Paine R., 525.)

Mr. Porter for plaintiff; Mr. Clark for defendant.

TUESDAY, March 24—P. M.

There was a fresh decline of five per cent. on the price of Gold Coin, to-day, on the appearance of a number of heavy sellers for cash early in the day. The first sales were at 150 and the lowest sales of the day 145½ ℔ cent., as against 151⅛ at the close of business last night. The market for Exchange was wholly unsettled by the fall of 3 ℔ cent. in Gold yesterday, and transactions for the Australasian were brought to a complete stand by the additional fall to-day. The nearest figure on London quoted this afternoon is 160 ℔ cent., corresponding with about 146 ℔ cent. for Gold Coin. The excitement among the Foreign Bill Brokers was quite as great as among the Street speculators in Gold. During the recent upward movement in Gold, the prevailing opinion among both Bankers and Bill Brokers in the Foreign Exchanges was in the direction of higher figures, and even after the decline set in and the rate for Gold was precipitated from 173 to 153@155, the belief with very many of them was that a speedy reaction would follow. But every attempt to speculate for such a turn has fallen through, and the consequence is that after holding over Exchange from steamer to steamer or refusing to draw at the going rates, these parties now come into the market on an additional decline of 8 or 10 ℔ cent. on London in competition with eager sellers of Gold at a corresponding or even greater fall in rates.

There was no special political or military cause assigned for the heavy decline of to-day. The influences appear to be almost wholly of a financial nature, and among these the improved credit of the Government and the facility with which the Treasury is commanding about $2,000,000 ℔ day from the public, appear to be the most predominant. The subscriptions to the New Loan of 1882, by the voluntary conversion of United States Notes of legal tender, amount to-day, in the sea-board cities alone, to a million of dollars. The deposits on 5 ℔ cent. interest in the New-York Sub-Treasury amount to $600,000. The 6 ℔ cent. Stock of 1881 rose to 105¼ ℔ cent., and sales of the 5 ℔ cents of 1874 were made at 97¾ ℔ cent. The market for Money is easy at 5@6 ℔ cent. to the Brokers.

The Stock Exchange, with the exception of Government Stock and Treasury paper, is less firm than yesterday. The speculators on the Railway list, for the fall, are acting apparently on the theory that prices must go down on the appreciation of the currency in which they are made, and that the superior inducements of Government Stocks which pay their interest exclusively in Gold and promise a liberal advance on the restoration of peace, must, to some extent, direct attention from the rest of the market. So far as investment purchases in Bonds and Shares, paying their dividends in Currency only, and entitled to no such credit, in their best estate, as the Government of the United States, are concerned, this is not unlikely to be the case. But there will probably be the usual amount of speculation through the Spring and Summer in doubtful or inferior values nevertheless, be the final result to Bull or Bear what it may.

The following prices were made this afternoon, as compared with Monday night, the general market closing dull:

The business of the past two weeks, Mr. EDWARD BILL notices thus: "The market for flour presents no new feature. The causes that have for some time controlled it in a great degree are still in operation, and the daily fluctuations in gold are called in question when prices are quoted. In the fortnight past the tendency has been downward, and buyers have had the advantage. There is but little export demand, and the home trade purchase only for their daily wants. In the meantime the stock is being materially reduced, and the supplies are moderate, and throughout the country high prices are asked for wheat; this, together with heavy rates of transportation, and the dull state of our own markets, is causing much disappointment and loss to the millers. The trade yesterday was inactive and the quotations a trifle lower. Our stock of sound Wheat is greatly reduced, and for Amber Winter, which is wanted, the holders are very firm. Only one or two small lots of Spring, suitable for shipment, are for sale, and that quality is held at high rates. Indian Corn is in light stock, and strictly prime is scarce and in fair demand. Rye sells slowly. The export clearances from this port, for the fortnight, foot up, to Great Britain and Ireland, 45,816 bbls. Flour, 360,236 bushels Wheat, 458,807 bushels Corn, 22,789 bushels Peas; to Havre, 792 bbls. Flour, 33,706 bushels Wheat; to Portugal, 3,602 bbls. Flour, 58,965 bushels Wheat; to Madeira, 643 bbls. NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE REBELLION.

Our Washington correspondent repeats the report that the rebels are falling back from the line of the Rappahannock, based on the statements of refugees who came within our lines on Monday. They represent that the entire force left in Fredericksburgh on Sunday night was only 8,000.

Rebel advices from Charleston to the 22d inst. indicate that all was quiet there at that date. The Charlestonians do not expect an attack before the highest Spring tide, which will be on the 2d of April.

Important intelligence regarding operations against Vicksburgh has reached us. A steamer loaded with troops, accompanied by a gunboat, is said to have succeeded in passing into the Yazoo River above Haines' Bluff, and between that point and Yazoo City. She went through Cypress Bayou, which debouches into the river opposite the point where Gen. SHERMAN landed last December; thence passed through another bayou into the Sunflower, which empties into the Yazoo twenty miles above Haines' Bluff. When it was found possible to get through, a number of gunboats followed, and they in turn were to be followed by transports with troops. This movement will at once insure the fall of Yazoo City, Fort Pemberton, and the batteries on Haines' Bluff, and the rebel stronghold at Vicksburgh will thus be completely flanked.

A dispatch from Murfreesboro states that the rebels confronting Gen. ROSECRANS have recently made several reconnoissances, which have caused considerable picket skirmishing along the whole front, though they do not appear anxious to bring on a general engagement. Parties of guerrillas have also made their appearance along the Nashville Railroad. The road is heavily guarded, however, and no serious damage so far has been done. Intelligence had reached Murfreesboro from the South that the evacuation of Vicksburgh was being advocated for strategic reasons—the idea being to mass the rebel troops in Middle Tennessee, and compel Gen. ROSECRANS to repeat the movement made by BUELL last year.

Paroled prisoners have arrived in Cincinnati from Mount Sterling, Ky., and confirm the report of the capture of the place by the rebels under Col. CLUKE. Col. GARRARD is said to have attacked CLUKE'S guerrillas on Monday, near Mount Sterling, and to have driven them toward Owingsville.

Gen. BURNSIDE arrived in Cincinnati yesterday morning.

We have advices from Port Royal to the 18th inst., but no news of importance. Everything indicates success in the great movement.

Interesting intelligence has reached us from Arkansas and the Cherokee Nation. The rebel Gen. HINDMAN is reported to be at some point in Southwestern Arkansas, endeavoring to reorganize his demoralized army. MARMADUKE is at Clarksville, on the north side of the Arkansas, a town about half-way between Van Buren and Little Rock. He is reported as having a large cavalry force. Our scouts scour the whole country west of Clarksville and north of the Arkansas. They have visited Van Buren several times lately. All the rebel force in Arkansas is completely demoralized. Their transportation, wagons and animals are literally "used up." The Cherokee Legislature, at its late session, revoked the ordinance of secession and the treaty with the rebel Government, passed by a former Legislature. An act was passed deposing from office all Cherokees disloyal to the Government of the United States, and declaring them forever thereafter incompetent to hold any office. A resolution was passed asking the President to extend to the Cherokee Nation the offer of compensated emancipation. At the same time a bill became a law unconditionally abolishing Slavery. It is understood that another law was passed declaring all persons born in the Cherokee Territory citizens of the Nation. This, of course, includes persons of African descent as well as whites.

In the last two days two millions in legal tenders have been converted into 5.20 bonds, making five millions in ten days.

THE STATE LEGISLATURE.

In the Senate, yesterday, petitions and remonstrances against a Broadway Railroad were presented. A petition from A. T. STEWART and others offered to accept the grant as reported by the Senate Committee, and to pay the City $2,000,000 for it. A unanimous report was made by the Bank Committee against the policy of paying the interest on the State debt in coin. The Canal Committee reported against the recommendation of the Canal Board to reduce the tolls on hides, grass seed and other articles. A favorable report was made on the New-York Crosstown Railroad. The bill appropriating $175,000 to the Lake Ontario, Auburn and New-York Railroad was ordered to a third reading. The Broadway Railroad bill was considered during the evening session, but was not disposed of. It was made the special order for Thursday night.

In the Assembly, the bill providing for the incorporation of the Catholic churches was passed. The bill appropriating a portion of the revenues of the Literature Fund for the benefit of academies was passed; also the bill amending the act relative to loans of United States moneys deposited with the State. During the evening session the Grinding Committee reported a number of bills complete, but none of them were acted upon.

GENERAL NEWS.

The steamship Europa, from Halifax, arrived at Boston at 6½ o'clock yesterday morning. Her mails reached New-York last evening. Our files by her are no later than those by the City of Manchester.

Between 4 and 5 o'clock yesterday morning, a terrible explosion occurred on board the steamtug D. E. Crary, lying at Pier No. 44 North River. The steamer was blown to pieces, and five men, who were employed on board, lost their lives. Two others, including the captain of the tug, were seriously scalded. An inquest will be held at the Twenty-eighth Precinct Station-house at 9 o'clock on Friday morning, by Coroner WILDEY, when the cause of the fatal catastrophe will be investigated.

A very large meeting of the employes representing the various trades throughout the City, assembled at the Cooper Institute last evening with a view of concerting some measures by which the workingmen should be protected in their interests. The hall was paid for by FERNANDO WOOD. Spirited addresses were made by a number of persons present and a series of resolutions embracing the sentiment of the meeting was adopted.

The Board of Councilmen met, by special call, at 2 o'clock P. M. yesterday, and concurred to send a joint committee to Albany, to urge the Legislature to legalize the Commissioners of Deeds appointed in excess of the number of those officers in this City allowed by statute. The papers from the Aldermen to extend the Eighth-avenue Railroad, and to hire the upper part of the Broadway Bank building for the use of the Street Commissioner, at a rent of $10,000 per year, were laid over. The resolutions protesting against the passage of the bill before the Legislature to extend the terms of office of certain heads of departments were opposed by Mr. JONES, who said this Board had no interest in passing them, the "rights" likely to be trenched upon being only the advantages of controlling the patronage connected with the departments concerned—prerogatives which a combination of the Aldermen studiously monopolized. On his motion the resolutions were referred to the Committee on Law. He then presented resolutions expressing the desire of this Board that the bill may be passed, to insure to the City the benefit of experienced executive officers. These were adopted. The Mayor's Message in relation to the death of Ex-Comptroller HAWS was read. and also the resolutions respecting the sad event adopted in the other Board, which were concurred in. Adjourned to 4 o'clock P. M. on Thursday.

The funeral of Gen. SUMNER is announced to take place in Syracuse at 11 o'clock this forenoon. His body lay in State at the City Hall in that city, yesterday, and was visited by about 20,000 people.

The Court of Oyer and Terminer adjourned without transacting any business, yesterday, in consequence of the illness of Judge BARNARD. The Court of General Sessions also adjourned till to-day—no case being ready for trial.

There was a fresh decline of five per cent. in Gold Coin yesterday, sales being made as low as 145½ per cent., and Exchange unsettled, quoted about 160 per cent. on London. The subscriptions to the New 6 per cent. Loan of 1882 amounted to $1,000,000. The deposits with the Sub-Treasury on 5 per cent interest, were $600,000. The Government Loan of 1881 rose to 105½ per cent. The rest of the Stock market was less firm than on Monday.

Prices of Breadstuffs and Provisions were decidedly lower, yesterday, yet the demand was generally restricted. Groceries were more freely purchased, but at reduced figures. Whisky opened buoyantly, but closed heavily. No movements of importance occurred in Cotton, which was quoted nominally down to 73c.@74c. for Middling, ℘ ℔. The day's business in other commodities was limited, though in most instances buyers had any existing advantage. Very moderate Freight engagements were effected.

The Live Stock Markets are moderately supplied this week, and the demand soon absorbed all the larger animals. Beeves foot up 4,084 head for the past week, 3,406 of which were sold at Forty-fourth-street, nearly all on Monday. Prices advanced ½c.@¾c. ℘ ℔., and continued firm until all were sold. The prevailing rates were 10c.@11c. ℘ ℔., net weight, though a good many animals brought 12c., and some even 13c. Scarcely a bullock, no matter how poor, went below 9. The average of the market was about 10¼c. The stock was not sufficient for butchers, and a larger number will be wanted next week....Sheep have been very high during the past week, selling at 10c.@10½c., and even 10¾c. ℘ ℔., live weight—a very few extra fat ones only at the latter price. They are now plentier, and ½c. cheaper, with a falling market. A few good lots were sold on Tuesday, at 10c. Receipts for the week, 6,872. ....Live hogs foot up 16,356 for the week. They are in moderate demand, and show a tendency downward. Heavy, fat, corn-fed hogs are worth 6c.@6½c., and still fed, 5½c.@5¾c.

The Mighty Change in Public Feeling and its Causes.

Not since the opening of the war has a month passed so absolutely uneventful in a military way as the last. Hardly an advance step has been taken in any quarter, hardly a blow struck. The five great armies—under HOOKER, under ROSECRANS, under GRANT, under HUNTER, under BANKS—remain precisely in statu quo, or if any of them have moved, the result is wholly unknown. The month has been as barren, too, in naval results. And yet not a month has passed, since the beginning of the war, in which the public spirit has undergone so great a change. Deep despondency has given way to high confidence. The difference of thirty per cent. in the price of gold is but an inadequate token of the difference in the public feeling.

Singular as the fact of such a change in war time, without any military events, may seem at first blush, the causes are yet not very difficult to discover, though numerous and varied.

The primary cause is the reaction which naturally succeeds an unnatural depression. There was no good reason for the distrust and despondency which so widely prevailed through the Winter. We argued against it at the time as unwarranted by anything in the real situation of the cause. If the movements of the armies in the field had not borne such substantial results as had been anticipated, yet nothing had been lost. The comparative strength of the loyal and the disloyal portions of the Republic remained unchanged, and afforded the same ground as ever for confidence that the former must inevitably prevail in the end. Of course, in view of the way in which the Fall campaigns terminated, disappointment was unavoidable; but the discouragement that seized upon so many, had really nothing to justify it, and therefore was necessarily transient. The mere lapse of time has calmed the perturbed feelings, and given the cool judgment a chance to act.

The wise legislation of Congress has been another favorable influence. The financial measures and the Conscription bill were a pledge, which no man could misunderstand, that the Government should be sustained at all costs. The Copperheads in Congress voted against these enactments, and have since done all in their power to make them odious to the people. But without effect. The financial measures are vindicating themselves by actual results, which have silenced every opponent; and the tidings from all parts of the North establish the fact that the Conscription act, in spite of all traitorous opposition, is cordially approved, and will be resolutely maintained by the people. Thus the ability of the President to command adequate means is no longer a matter of doubt.

The improved condition and spirit of the armies in the field have also had an excellent effect. The "rings" or juntos among the high officers, which made attention to each others interests an important, and often a controlling duty, have been broken up. The more active marplots have been set aside, and a check has been put, in general, upon the further play of the miserable personal jealousies which have heretofore wrought so much confusion and mischief. The armies never had so much genuine esprit de corps, never so great unity of spirit and purpose as now. The present Commanders are known to be men whose whole heart is in their military work, and who have no ulterior political objects to serve. Their military orders have been a great improvement, in stringency and effectiveness, over any before issued. The devotion of the soldiers to their Commanders is of the very highest kind. What is still better, the devotion of the soldiers to the flag and the undivided Republic has developed itself with an intensity which has confounded every Northern traitor, and gladly surprised even loyal men. The eight hundred thousand men under arms, are now proved, beyond all further question, to be unimpressible by the acts of home-plotters for peace. They have signified their determination that this war shall be thoroughly fought out, and have made it certain that they will stand faithful to the end. This itself is a tower of strength for the confident spirit.

But among the people themselves there has been a corresponding development of indomitable resolution. The croaking and the clamors of organized faction had their way for a while, inasmuch as there was no concerted effort against them. But the Union Leagues were no sooner started to serve as rallying-points, than the outraged patriotism of the people at large began to assert itself; and already the popular will is displaying a force through these associations that has made the word compromise a by-word and a hissing. Unconditional submission to the Constitution and the laws of the land is the only overture to the rebels that will be tolerated. The Copperheads are perfectly sensible of the genuineness and terrible force of this newly aroused feeling, and are shrinking before it as they would shrink from approaching lightning and tempest. The depths of the popular heart are being stirred as never before. Its capacities for devotion and endurance are understood far better than ever. With this better understanding of course comes higher confidence.

Again the apprehensions of foreign intervention have been laid finally at rest. The Emancipation Proclamation, if it had no other good effect, certainly inured greatly to our advantage in binding the European masses firmly to our side. The breaking out of the Polish revolution has opportunely coöperated with this to make it impossible for any monarch or ministry in Europe to interfere against us, in favor of Slavery, without the imminent hazard of an overthrow at home. Mr. SEWARD's memorable letters to the French Minister put our claims for non-intervention on grounds so high and firm that the whole civilized world is constrained not only to fear but to admire. The spirit of the Government is set forth in a new light. The thorough Americanism of that missive, however much the little spiteful critics at home and abroad chose to carp, had a prodigious influence in giving an inviolable character to our cause. Foreign intervention can no longer be numbered among either the probabilities or possibilities of the future, and therein the more timorous portion of the public have found relief.

Finally, the deteriorated condition of the Confederacy itself has done much to reinspire confidence. It is made positively certain, not only by the statements of refugees but by the constant admissions of the rebel journals themselves, that, under the blockade and the scant home production, the South is exhausted of almost every necessary of life—that the finances are so disorganized that six dollars in paper bring but one in gold—that conscription has nearly exhausted itself, so that the rebel armies can be increased no more with effective men—that the railroads, for want of repairs and new machinery, are fast becoming unavailable—that the Congress dare not impose taxes for fear of driving the people to actual desperation—and that a feeling of utter hopelessness is fast becoming universal. These are vital facts. The knowledge of them, of course, here in the North, tends to reassure even the most distrustful.

Thus it is no wonder that bright confidence has so soon succeeded dark misgiving and repining. The bold and effective legislation of Congress, dispelling all the fears of a bankrupted treasury and a reduced army—the reorganization and reinspiration of the army, dispelling all the fears that it would become demoralized and insubordinate—the recombination of loyal citizens of all parties, dispelling all the fears of a divided North—the developments and final decisions in Europe, dispelling all the fears of foreign intervention—the rapid exhaustion and now visible tottering of the Confederacy;—all combining with the natural reaction from an unreasonable dejection, could not but work a great change. If there be any wonder in the matter, it only is that, considering all the powerful causes in operation, the change has not been even yet deeper and broader. But it is daily completing itself.

OUR POLICE COMMISSIONERS.—We take the liberty of asking what Gov. SEYMOUR is doing in regard to the charges preferred against the Metropolitan Police Commissioners at the outset of his administration? It will be remembered that the very first official act which Gov. SEYMOUR performed after taking the oath of office was to summon these Commissioners before him for examination,—the time for which was fixed two days before the meeting of the Legislature. A general outcry against so sudden and so summary a proceeding—called for by nothing but an assumed partisan necessity for securing their removal before the meeting of the Legislature—arrested it. But Gov. SEYMOUR then announced that he should take the earliest opportunity of making a rigid inquiry into the truth of the charges preferred, and of holding the Commissioners to their duty.

From that day to this, though nearly three months have elapsed, not a syllable has been heard from the Governor on this subject. What is the meaning of this silence? Have the charges been withdrawn, and is all design of proceeding against the Commissioners abandoned? Cannot the Atlas and Argus throw some light upon this subject?

If Gov. SEYMOUR has actually become satisfied that the charges were unfounded, and has given up all thought of removing the Commissioners, very well. But if not, we submit that he owes it to himself, as well as to the public, not to postpone the promised investigation until after the adjournment of the Legislature. If he tries, convicts and removes the Commissioners now, he can send in the names of their successors to the Senate for confirmation. If he postpones it until after the adjournment, he appoints without the Senate's concurrence. Is it the object of the postponement to secure this right to himself? We scarcely think that Gov. SEYMOUR would avow such a motive in face of his explicit promise at the outset of the session, that the charges should be investigated at the earliest possible moment. His delay now contrasts very strikingly with his great haste in dealing with this subject at the outset of his term,—though both possibly may have been prompted by precisely the same motive.

What If Your Uncle Had Been Your Aunt?

The splendid chapter in Les Miserables which describes the battle of Waterloo, is marred in several places by the author's absurd speculations upon what might have happened, if certain things had not happened; if the peasant that guided the Prussian column had lost his way, if NAPOLEON had not had a pain in his stomach, or if it had not rained. There must be a good deal that is fascinating about this sort of intellectual diversion, or a man of HUGO's resources would certainly not be tempted to indulge in it; and we know as a matter of fact, that for the mass of twaddling moralists, and cheap philosophers and metaphysicians, it has irresistible attractions. Its greatest charm lies in the circumstance that anybody, no matter how slender his stock of knowledge, or how limited his capacity, can indulge in it to his heart's content without the slightest fear of refutation or contradiction. He has only to provide himself with an emperor or a general or statesman and a piece of orange-peel or a badly-baked pie, and he has, forthwith, the fate of mankind in his hands, and can mold it at his leisure without let or hindrance. The emperor has only to step on the orange-peel and fracture his thigh and die of gangrene, or the general has only to eat the pie before breakfast on the morning of battle and be led off the field suffering from severe griping, and two or three kingdoms, or all christendom, fall into the philosopher's hands for rearrangement and redistribution. Or he may, if he is ambitious, eschew orange-peel or pie—though effects produced by these trifles are by far the most striking—and by supposing great and decisive victories to have been crushing defeats, by supposing whole nations to have said Aye when they actually said No, by supposing statesmen to have known things which at the time it was impossible for them to know, or supposing them to have done things which at the time would have seemed very foolish, though they now look wise—he at once gets the > "Cities, kingdoms, empires, > Castles, towns and towers" of the world into his hands, and constructs political combinations out of them that make the sages of past ages blush in their dry bones.

The philosophers of the Copperhead persuasion have taken to this species of distraction, in default of something more exciting. We receive from them every day a long list of things that might have happened, if somebody had done something a year ago, which he did not do, or had left undone something which he did do, accompanied by another list of things which might possibly come to pass, if certain other things did not come to pass. In all their lectures, meetings, conventions and printing-rooms we hear a dismal and monotonous wail about what DOUGLAS said before he died, and what LINCOLN said before he was inaugurated, and what GREELEY wrote in the Spring, Summer and Fall of 1860; what would have happened if DOUGLAS had lived, or LINCOLN had died, or GREELEY had retired into private life. They dilate by the hour, and by the column, the great and momentous question of "Who began the war?" very much in the style of two or three Five Points shrews, discussing the origin of a "set-to" on the common staircase, and, like them, are always very much less solicitous about historical truth than about convicting their adversaries of villainous designs. The nation has got before it the tremendous task of depriving an army of desperadoes, 300,000 strong, of the means of doing further mischief, and bringing half a continent into submission to the Government; and by way of helping it out of the difficulty, the Copperhead orators occupy long hours in showing what would have happened if LINCOLN had not tried to provision Fort Sumter, or if TWIGGS had not turned traitor in Texas. Some even go further back, and show that, if the Abolitionists had not begun to agitate in 1830, a thousand things too numerous to mention would have taken place every year since, not including the births, deaths and marriages. The land rings with accounts of the advice that Brown gave, and which was not taken, but ought to have been taken; of the lies that Smith told, and which he ought to confess publicly; of the false prophecies of Thompson last year, and which would make him ashamed of himself if he had any shame left.

We think it is high time for these philosophers to have mercy upon a long-suffering and most indulgent public. We venture to say that there is not a sensible man, woman or child in the country who is disposed to dispute one of their propositions. Supposing LINCOLN to have swallowed his tooth-brush on the 3d and to have died of it on the 4th of March, 1861, we are all willing, for the sake of quiet, to concede that this country would now be in the enjoyment of profound peace. Or, supposing him not to have issued the Proclamation, we are willing to admit that the whole Southern army would have disbanded on the 1st of January last. There is no absurd conclusion drawn from impossible or ridiculous premises that we will not accept in order to secure attention to the real business before us. We care not any longer for what he said, or what you said, or what we said, or what would have happened if we none of us had said anything or had said something else.

Consumption of Human Life in the South.

In no more striking way could the difference between the mental and moral characteristics of the Northern and Southern people be illustrated, than in their respective modes of filling the ranks of their armies in the existing war. The South has been hasty, uncalculating and wasteful. The North has been cautious, conservative and economical.

In the South, every boy is taught to believe in the natural superiority of "Southerners," and that he, as a youth, is more than a match in war for several full-grown men of any other class of people. The progeny of the slaveholders, or "natural leaders" of the South, are brought up luxuriantly, and almost without restraint, and hence are nervous and irritable under contradiction. It takes but a moderate excitement to put such youth in a "fine frenzy" of genuine passion, when they fulminate in as grand a style as the fully-matured fire-eater. The women and boys of the South approach each other in temperament. They are alike excitable and unreasoning; and hence it happened that the women and boys helped largely to fan the early flames of secession, and gave the conflagration a much wider sweep than it would otherwise have obtained.

The natural result of this social and political phenomenon was that the boys in the seceded States rushed almost en masse to arms at the outbreak of the rebellion. And by boys is to be understood not young men, nor youths of eighteen merely, but school boys—lads of fourteen and over—who would have required several years of patient tuition at home before they could have been prepared for life or college. In the early days of the war the Southern papers had frequent mention of this extraordinary rush of juveniles to the war. In their ignorance, these rebel organs gloried in the fact, and dwelt on it as illustrating the all-pervading and unconquerable enthusiasm of the South. It was boasted that schools and academies, especially for males, were almost universally suspended, because the boys had enlisted and gone to the war. Our armies in advancing found none in operation, but they found school and college buildings at LaGrange, Columbia and Nashville, Tenn.; at Oakland, Miss., and at New-Orleans, deserted of scholars and devoted to military purposes. There was much notoriety given, it will be remembered, to a company of Louisiana lads recruited wholly in the New-Orleans public schools, few of whom were over sixteen years of age. This company of children proceeded, with great pomp and heraldry of newspapers, on the route to join the army of Gen. BEAUREGARD at Corinth. One might have supposed from the extraordinary sensation created by this event among the Southrons that an army corps of WELLINGTON's veterans had joined the Confederate standard. Heaven forgive them! We know not how many of these young and tender lads fell in battle; or how many were shot for not being able to keep open their heavy eyes during the long and dreary night watches on guard duty, or how many went down exhausted on the march under the weight of musket and knapsack, never to rise again, and lingered until death, in hospital, untended by the mothers they should never have left. But the curses pronounced in the Old Testament scripture upon those heathen parents who caused their children to pass "through the fire" to Moloch, should read fearfully to Southern rulers, who conspired to send to the war and sacrifice so many of the tender youths of the South. But this crime against youth and innocence is receiving the punishment due to its enormity. The cause that was the willing Moloch to receive and consume children in sacrifice, is now suffering for men that are no longer to be found. Saturn has eaten his children—whence shall he get help to combat his ever-increasing enemies?

It is an admitted fact that the youth of the South, down to about the age of sixteen, have almost universally enlisted and been destroyed in the Confederate cause. It will be five years at least before the seceded States can bring up a new crop of soldiers equal to the fatigues and hardships of the military service. The flower of their youth is gone, and the source of manhood is for a season dried up.

The Conscription act of the Confederates forces into the army males of 18 years of age and over; and the local militia laws of many of the Southern States, enacted since the war, bring into the military ranks the male youths from 16 and upward. Public opinion and practice under the volunteer system, also, swept into the army most of the boys of several years under 18. Thus the injury is already done, and is irrevocable.

How different is the Northern system. The Conscription act of the North permits youths to become men before they can be made soldiers. No one under 20 years of age can be required to go into the army. No academies or colleges have been suspended—very few have been diminished at all in the average attendance of pupils—and the boys of the North have never been, and will not be, drawn into the passionate and exhausting excitement of the war. Thus we preserve the nursery of manhood, and are training soldiers, to the full capacity of our vast population, to take the places of those who may wear out in the field.

It is a noteworthy fact, and one fully borne out in statistics, that great wars may be continued long and prove very destructive of human life, and yet produce hardly a perceptible effect in checking the increase of population. Take the average of life of soldiers in the field, and it will come up pretty nearly to the average of life of a like number of men in peace. Death by battle only takes the place of death in some other form—and the soldier has lived to do his part in carrying on the great law of natural increase. But this is the case only when matured men are put into armies. By the Southern system the candle of life is lighted at both ends, and the people that are thus exhausted must hasten to downfall if not extinction.

Conditions of Peace.

On Monday, the Tribune, in defining and vindicating its new position that the rebel States might save Slavery by returning to the Union, in spite of the Emancipation Proclamation, said:

> "There are citizens, otherwise well-informed, whose party prejudices impel them to believe that this is a 'war for the nigger,' rather than for the Union, and that prejudice weakens the army of the nation. We seek, therefore, to dispel it, and we trust not without success."

This is a laudable purpose. The prejudice referred to does exist, and beyond all question has done serious injury to the cause of the Union. The impression has very widely obtained that a large and influential portion of the Republican Party was fighting this war mainly for the overthrow of Slavery, and that in their minds the restoration of the Union was a matter of secondary importance: they would gladly save the Union if they could without also saving Slavery; but they preferred that the Union should be dissolved, and peace made on the basis of recognizing the independence of the Southern Confederacy, rather than that Slavery should be restored to the degree of protection which it enjoyed under the Constitution previous to the outbreak of the rebellion. It was pleasant to find Mr. GREELEY laboring to dispel this illusion, especially as he was generally supposed to hold precisely that view of the subject himself.

But in yesterday's Tribune we find him taking ground which it seems difficult to reconcile with this view of the case. In discussing the subject of a National Convention he says:

> "And now—
> We shall favor any and every proposition which looks to the restoration of Peace to this distracted country otherwise than by new concessions to the insatiable Greed of Human Slavery. If, then, the Democratic leaders have concluded to urge the call of a National Convention, we trust there will be no opposition."

We do not know whether Peace on the basis of Southern independence would fall under the Tribune's exception or not. But the sweeping declaration which this paragraph embodies certainly conveys the idea that the first thing to be considered in plans for ending the war is the status of Slavery, and not that of the Union. In other words, it reaffirms the "prejudice" which on Monday the Tribune was so anxious to dispel—namely, that this is a "war for the nigger," and not for the Union.

For our own part, we shall favor no proposition for Peace which does not provide for restoring the Union. That, with us, and we believe with the people, is the main consideration. The sine quâ non with them is the preservation of the territorial integrity of the nation. Whenever we can have peace on that basis, they will be prepared to consider its terms. Until then, they have nothing to do but to wage war with all possible vigor for the purpose of forcing these terms upon those who are trying to destroy the nation.

STONE PIERS FOR THE CITY.—A Committee of the Board of Aldermen has made a report in favor of building, as an experiment, two stone piers, one on the East and the other on the North River, for the purpose of testing their utility as compared with the wooden piers, which are all the City has had hitherto. The report urges very strongly the necessity of a complete system of substantial stone piers and wharves for the convenience of our commerce, and shows how far behind every other considerable commercial city in the world New-York has hitherto been in this respect. The matter deserves the attention of all who are interested in the commercial prosperity of the City. We trust some prompt and efficient action will be taken upon it.

Amusements.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—The opera of "Linda di Chamounix" will be produced here this evening, for the first time under Mr. MARETZEK's present direction. Madame MEDORI, whose enormous success has become the town talk, appears as the heroine, and Madame SULZER, Signor BELLINI, Signor BIACHI and Signor COLETTI are also in the distribution. The most interesting feature of the cast is Signor MINETTI, Mr. MARETZEK's other tenor, who makes his début as Carlo. This gentleman is said to possess an admirable voice, and of the soft, sympathetic kind, so much affected by our public.

To-morrow evening Mr. MARETZEK will give his second performance in Brooklyn. The opera selected is VERDI's "Ballo in Maschera," with Madame GUERRABELLA, Mlle. ORTALANI, Mlle. SULZER, Signor MAZZOLINI, Signor BELLINI, and other members of the company in the cast.

THUMB VERSUS BARNUM.—The entente cordiale heretofore existing between Mr. BARNUM and Gen. TOM THUMB seems to have been broken. THUMB, who has been doing very well in Boston, has set up shop for himself, and proposes to exhibit himself and and wife at Irving Hall next week, advertising that he has no connection with other business concerns. To this Mr. BARNUM has replied in a Proclamation of a column in length, in which he intimates a breach of faith on the part of THUMB, and announces that he will continue to exhibit Com. NUTT and Miss MINNIE WARREN, who together are not as large as the General alone. So it goes. How it will end, who can tell?

PICTURES.—The first night's sale of pictures at the Derby Gallery by the auctioneer, SINTZENICH, came off last evening with great éclat. The pictures generally brought high prices. A small Winter scene by GIGNOUX brought $180; a landscape by WILLIAM HART brought $37; a bunch of grapes by INMAN, $37; the White Feather, by HUNTINGTON, $150, and Hamlet, by SCHUSSEL, of Philadelphia, $340; $47 was paid for a beautiful little "Venice," by RUGGLES.

ANOTHER SALE.—Messrs. LEEDS & Co. sell, at the old Dusseldorf Gallery, No. 548 Broadway, a private collection of pictures, comprising works of some of the most celebrated living artists. The sale will take place on the evenings of to-morrow and the next day—Thursday and Friday. The catalogues, which can be had at the rooms, where the pictures are on exhibition free, are well worthy of examination.

OUR FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.

AFFAIRS IN FRANCE.

America and Intervention—The Latter Dead—No Grounds for It—The New-York Secession Press—Ships vs. Forts—The Mexican Imbroglio—The Rebel Loan.

PARIS, Friday, March 6, 1863.

There is nothing new on the subject of Mr. SEWARD'S dispatch; not a single journal has contained a "leader" on the subject, and the majority of the papers have not mentioned it at all in the way of commentary. It is certain that there was no special order from the Ministry to the Press, and that the directors of the journals acted on their own judgment in the matter. Was their silence due to a fear gathered from past experience, or did they share in the irritation which the Government must have felt at the rejection of the proposition? Probably one and the other. Nevertheless, there is a certain amount of indifference on the whole subject of the American war, more, certainly, than at any former period, and this contributed, undoubtedly, to the silence of the Press. It is at the same time true that the Secessionists and their sympathisers pretend that the relations between the two governments have become most delicate, and that a diplomatic rupture at least is on the eve of taking place. It is also true that the cry of recognition, uttered the other day by the London Morning Post, has been caught up and reëchoed here by the enemies of the Union, but in all this we see nothing but inventions of the enemy, without any official basis whatever. So far as I have been able to ascertain, the question of intervention has never been so dead as at the present moment, and I ought to add that one of the causes which has most contributed to this result is the apparent revival of patriotism in the Democratic party of the North.

As I have had occasion to tell you before, the interventionists of Europe look to the Democrats of the North for the signal of action, for, whether truly or falsely, this party has succeeded in convincing Europe that it is in favor of peace, even at the price of a foreign intervention.

But the great fact to be kept in view by the Government and people of the United States is this: that neither France nor England alone will go to war with the United States on any principle thus far involved, that is to say, either for cotton, for an inefficiency of the blockade, for the sake of an early recognition, or in fact for anything but some flagrant provocation coming from the people of the United States themselves, and that as for an alliance of the two Powers against the United States, the thing is impossible, because they can never agree upon the basis of such an alliance. Let the people of the United States, therefore, give Europe to understand that they are now, and always intend to be, ready to go to war in case of intervention, and let the whining factionist Press of the North cease its eulogiums of nations who desire nothing better than to see us destroyed, and there will be no intervention now or hereafter.

The official paper, now more than any other, refers to American affairs, and many persons, judging from the character of its pulications, argue that the French Government is thus boldly hostile to the Union. But the Moniteur has instructions to publish the kind of news which will satisfy the suffering portion of the people of France in regard to a revival of trade, and this paper, therefore, takes pains to compile from American sources all the treason of the New-York World and Express, the incomprehensible policy of VALLANDIGHAM, WOOD & Co., the legislative resolutions of the disaffected East and West, and, in fine, every demonstration looking to a relinquishment of the war for the Union. The French Government has declared that all the Christian nations of the earth are, at this advanced period of civilization, responsible to each other for the suffering any one causes to the others, and that the offending party ought to be willing to share in these sufferings. On this ground they tried to make peace in the United States, and, failing in this, they do the only thing left for them to do, and make faces at us in the official journal, or, in other words, they give such a one-sided view of our affairs as to depreciate us in the eyes of the world, and thus we are made to share morally in the general suffering.

The Moniteur also publishes at length, with criticisms, the recital of the combat between the Montauk and Fort McAllister, and for reasons you will readily comprehend. If forts can be built to resist cuirassed ships, the invasion of a foreign country is out of the question, and, on the other hand, it is pretended that the 450-pound ball of the Montauk does not seem to have produced as destructive an effect as they procure in this country from 80 and 120 pound balls, and they argue that Capt. DAHLGREN'S important theory that a low velocity produces the greatest effect is thus destroyed.

Within a few days two reports have been in circulation, which show exactly the measure of public dissatisfaction with the Mexican expedition. One of these reports is that the expedition is to be withdrawn at once, and the other that the Government is dissatisfied with the slowness of Gen. FOREY, and is going to replace him with Marshal NIEL. These reports are of course both unfounded, but they are nevertheless excellent indications of public sentiment.

Something is brewing about the Confederate loan. It is now said that the banking-house of FOULD is engaged in it with ERLANGER, and our Southern friends naturally derive from this circumstance a hope of dragging the French Government into some sort of a complication with the Government of Washington. A few days will probably clear up the matter. MALAKOFF.

AFFAIRS IN ENGLAND.

Marriage of the Prince of Wales—Reception of the Princess—Speculation on Loyalty—The Crisis in America—The Conscription and its Possible Results—Conquest, Peace or Further Disunion—France—Poland—English Sympathies and Interests.

LONDON, Friday, March 6, 1863.

All England is in a state of extatic glorification to-day. The Royal Princess of Denmark passes through London on her way to Windsor Castle, where, on Tuesday next, she is to be married to the Prince of Wales. She arrived in the Thames yesterday, lands this morning at Gravesend, comes by railway to London, and will pass through the metropolis, from the Bricklayers' Arms station to Paddington, attended by the civic dignitaries.

London is probably the worst city in the world for such a procession. The streets are narrow and crooked; the mob is immense and unpleasant. There will be six miles of jam, confusion and probably outrage and disaster. Ten thousand thieves will be active among the crowd. The shops, houses, and even the churchyards have been fitted up with seats, at from one to ten dollars each. There is an abundance of loyalty, but there is also a tremendously sharp look out for shillings. Every man who has a foot's space along the line of progress, or in sight of it, calculates to plate it with gold. In New-York, a shopkeeper invites his friends to see a passing show. In London, he makes them pay handsomely for the privilege.

Tuesday next, will be another holiday. At night there will be extensive illuminations. These consist of stars and other designs of gas, colored lamps, and transparencies. On the last occasion, the close of the Crimean war, the streets got jammed in a dense crowd which became immovable, and did not disintegrate until daylight.

The last news of America is looked upon as more critical then any that has come since the war began. The Government, at last, appears to have resolved on doing what the emergency demands. This action cannot be but decisive. It is the wisest course—it is the only one. No war, in these days, ought to last longer than three years. A Government, acting upon the offensive, cannot let a war drag on without the most serious consequences.

To fight and to conquer there must be men and means. Every able-bodied man, and the entire available property of a nation, must be placed at the disposal of the Government. If it can command these, it can exert its utmost power, and do whatever it is capable of doing. If men and means are withheld from the Government, its power is gone. This, then, is the very point to be settled, and which ought to have been settled long ago. If a general conscription can be carried out, and a tax sufficient to carry on the war, it can be carried on with energy. But if a conscription is resisted, or taxation refused, no war is possible.

We, therefore, wait in England the result of the conscription, and watch the movements of the currency. If the Government can carry out conscription in the North, there need be no fears respecting finance, or the sinews of war. When men are ready to devote themselves, their money and goods will not be wanting. But this one thing should be fully understood. The white men of the North must fight out this war, if it is ever to be brought to a successful issue. They must not rely upon the negro. He is not a safe or reliable instrument. The white men of the South can be conquered only by men equal to themselves in courage, devotion and strategy. In a moment of enthusiasm, men can be raised by volunteering, as money can by contributions; but neither method can be relied upon. Conscription is the only certain means of creating armies. Taxation is the only sure resource in finance.

There are, in the opinion of the ablest European observers, three possible terminations to the present contest, leaving out of view the contingency of foreign intervention. The first is that the North, accepting the necessity of universal conscription, will by one great and overwhelming effort conquer the South and crush out the rebellion. They consider that the Proclamation of Emancipation has failed of any good effect, and has even weakened the Government in the Border States. They wait, with more or less anxiety, according to their sympathies and hopes, to see if this last appeal of the Government will meet with a patriotic response from the people.

In case of a failure of the conscription to bring out the strength of the nation, and of a corresponding failure of the people to sustain the credit of the Government, and its means of paying and supporting the armies in the field, it is believed that the next best course must be to offer or accept terms of peace. No indication to this end is needed. If the North either cannot or will not conquer the South, there is no sense in a protracted and useless warfare. The Federal State would still be the great Power of the Continent, and every year would add to its superiority. The South, as the weaker Power, would always be influenced and controlled by the North, to which it would also be, as it always has been, a commercial tributary.

But there is a third possibility believed in here. Persistence in the war, or a carrying out of the conscription, against the feelings of a majority, or even of a powerful minority of any State or section of the loyal States, might lead to a collision between the Federal and State Governments, and a further disruption of the Union. Let the sentiments spoken by Mr. MAY in Congress, or by Mr. VALLANDIGHAM in Newark, New-Jersey, become those of the majority of the people of two or three States, and a far worse calamity might ensue than the secession of the Slave States. It is this last danger which prudent men are beginning to dread. If a line were now drawn around the seceded States, or a Chinese wall built up, the Federal Union would still be a great nation. Let the West divide from the East, and a new Republic be built up on the Pacific, and where would America be? Triumphed over, bullied and insulted by the whole world, and especially by England, which is always as civil to power as she is insolent to weakness.

Here, then, as it appears in England, is the crisis of the fate of America. Union for the Union; an absolute union of all power, all strength, all means, and all manhood, for the suppression of the rebellion, or further disunion, disaster, humiliations endless, and a future no one can foresee. Between these may lie the necessity of peace, and this prospect is what sustains the fainting hopes of Lancashire, and holds the hands of those who are in favor of intervention. The National Government, they say, will soon be compelled to make peace. Its armies are wasting away. New ones cannot be raised. It takes $1 62 of greenbacks to pay a dollar in gold. The Democratic States will resist a conscription, and Democratic Governors will not yield their rights to officer the militia of their States. If any attempt is made to enforce conscription or levy taxation, it will drive other States out of the Union, and produce other political combinations. To save what remains, the Government must consent to the loss that is inevitable.

This is the line of argument. But if Vicksburgh were taken and the Mississippi open to commerce as well as to iron-clad gunboats; if Charleston were reduced to cinders; if Savannah and Mobile were opened to the trade of the world; if, moreover, encouraged by these successes, the credit of the Government were to rise and the Conscription be accepted with enthusiasm, there would be a different feeling, and the organs of public opinion would play another tune. Judge, then, with what anxiety we wait for news by every steamer. Judge how we feel, who know not from hour to hour, whether we still have a country, a Government, or any ground of hope for the future.

I can see no reason to justify the expectation, which seems to be entertained in America, that France is prepared for recognition, and, what must necessarily follow, a forceful intervention. But the Emperor is not a man to declare his intentions. The Paris press, which is supposed to speak by inspiration, has made little sign. The American Government has thrown down its glove—some say, in the hope that its challenge may be accepted. I think nothing can be done until the affair of Poland is settled.

The talk about Poland—the debate in the Houses of Parliament a few days ago—was, after all, but talk. The Government will not interfere—will not even join France in a diplomatic intervention. Why? Because France may plant her eagles on the Rhine. Because France may swallow up Belgium at a single mouthful. Because England has no fancy for a war with Russia. Because the Poles are almost sure to be crushed and trampled under foot before help can reach them. Because, furthermore, it is MAZZINI, KOSSUTH, GARIBALDI—the leaders of revolution in Europe—who have lighted the torch of war. England was never so conservative as to-day. Never so boastful, superior to all the world, and contemptuous to all other nations, kindreds, tongues and peoples.

So she feeds her million of paupers, pays her $35,000,000 of poor rates, and her $350,000,000 taxes, and lights her gas and bonfires to celebrate the marriage of the Prince of Wales.

DEAFNESS
NOISES IN THE HEAD,
Diseases of the Eye, Ear & Throat,
CATARRH CURED
BY
DR. VON EISENBERG.

From the Journal of Commerce.

EXCITING NEWS FOR THE DEAF.—An instrument called Dr. Von Eisenberg's Air Passage Expander and Regulator, a gigantic machine, weighing nearly five hundred pounds, about five feet in height, a most wonderful apparatus for restoring sight and hearing, has just arrived for Dr. Von Eisenberg, the celebrated Oculist and Aurist, and will be on exhibition at the Doctor's office, No. 816 Broadway, for a few days previous to its use. The instrument is constructed decidedly on the most scientific principles. To give a detailed description would require a greater space than we can now spare. Our Oculist and Aurist seems to do everything in the line of his profession on a gigantic scale. The new instrument for restoring hearing to the deaf and sight to the blind is so constructed that it cannot fail to open the most obstructed air passages. His new consulting rooms, No. 816 Broadway, are correspondingly magnificent, and his practice as Aurist and Oculist large and eminently successful.

From the New-York Evening Express, Feb. 14, 1863.

SENSATION AMONG THE DEAF.—The unrivaled skill of Dr. Von Eisenberg, the far-famed Oculist and Aurist, of No. 816 Broadway, has made quite a sensation among the Deaf and Blind by his wonderful cures, which attract the Deaf, Blind and those suffering from Chronic Catarrh, from all parts of the Union to his office. The number of his certificates of really wonderful cures swells daily. For the benefit of sufferers, we submit the following, which requires no comment:

NEW-YORK, Feb. 9, 1863.

I have been completely deaf in one ear, and partially so in the other, for above seventeen years, with a disagreeable discharge from both ears, combined with continual rumbling noise in the head, for which I have been treated by a most eminent practitioner in the City without the slightest relief.

I consulted Dr. Von Eisenberg, but I must candidly say that I had no faith in his success when I did so. It is, therefore, due to Dr. Von Eisenberg to acknowledge that I am entirely cured; also, that he displayed that skill and knowledge which have procured for him such an unrivaled reputation. As I have had an opportunity of comparing his mode of treatment with that of others, I can truly state that it is not only superior, but the principles which direct his mode of restoring the hearing are, in my opinion, certain.

JOHN TAYLOR,
No. 13 Livingston-st., Brooklyn.

NEW-YORK, July 19, 1862.

This certifies that my mother has been for some time afflicted with partial deafness, suffering from pain, and rumbling noises in the head, together with other indications of a total loss of hearing. Dr. Von Eisenberg removed from her ears a great quantity of matter, together with coagulated blood, relieving her instantaneously, and all without pain. It is with grateful thanks that I give this testimony to his skill.

CARROLL J. POST, No. 28 South-st.

No. 188 MERCER-ST., NEW-YORK.

J. E. VON EISENBERG, M. D.—Dear Doctor: I have been afflicted with total deafness, and was induced to pay you a visit. No one can imagine my delight when, after one operation, my hearing was suddenly, and without pain, restored to me, for which I feel very grateful. After being totally deaf—almost shut out from the pleasure of using so necessary a sense—to have it returned, and to hear so distinctly, reflects great credit on you for the immense amount of skill you possess. I beg to thank you for what I can so truly appreciate. I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

EDWARD TEMPEE HARRISON.

NEW-YORK, Nov. 6, 1862.

DR. VON EISENBERG—Dear Sir: Before taking leave of you, after your most successful operation on my ear, allow me to express my sincere thanks that, by your scientific surgical performance, I am enabled to hear distinctly, and enjoy a pleasure of which I have long been deprived—over a year. May you be rewarded by being enabled to perform many similar, to benefit other sufferers, and to your own emolument.

Allow me to present my kindest regards, and assure you of my grateful remembrance. Respectfully,

A. McDONALD REYNOLDS,
Captain Marines, United States.

CHRONIC CATARRH CURED.
READ!

NEW-YORK, March 20, 1863.

"This is to certify, that I have suffered from very severe CHRONIC CATARRH, with a dull heaviness in the head. I felt my nose completely stopped up accompanied by continual soreness of the throat, the chills stealing over me with occasional hot flushes, a great tightness of the chest and pain, so much so, that every one thought it was consumption. Having heard of the great cures performed by Dr. Von Eisenberg, I consulted him with but little hope of a cure. I am now happy to be enabled to add my testimonial to the great number already in the Doctor's possession, as to his scientific and successful mode of treatment, as he has shown in my case that skill and knowledge which have procured for him so great a reputation. I am so entirely restored to perfect health that I do most sincerely recommend all sufferers from CHRONIC CATARRH and SORE THROAT to apply at once to Dr. Von Eisenberg with a certainty of being cured."

"It is a satisfaction for an author to know that his writings will be transmitted to a distant nation by virtue of an honorable commercial arrangement. This the author has found in his dealings with Messrs. Carter & Brothers, and he puts it to the honor of the American Nation that these editions published by the Messrs. Carters, from which alone he derives some advantage, will be purchased by the citizens of the United States, and that they will not countenance the pirated editions that other booksellers may issue without his consent."

"D'Aubigne is well known to readers of every grade in this country, and Mrs. Stowe, and perhaps Macaulay, are his only rivals in popularity. It is a popularity well deserved, as every one will acknowledge who has lingered over his charmed pages."—Louisville Journal.

"The style of D'Aubigne is among the most pleasing we ever read. It combines the rhetorical ease and terseness of Macaulay with the historical precision and philosophical analysis of Hume."—Saturday Evening Express.

"The name of D'Aubigne has become inseparably connected with the history of the emancipation of the Christian Church from the errors and corruptions of Rome. Very few books, even in this age of reading, have found so many readers as the History of the Reformation."—Providence Journal.

"GARRET VAN HORN" is a lively, rattling, amusing novel. It overflows with incident, and its characters stand out in good relief. The sketch of Home, the Scotch merchant, is particularly good. We recommend this novel as the best local fiction published for some time.—Philadelphia Press.

GARRET VAN HORN.
A NOVEL.
By JOHN S. SAUZADE.

The author is a new one to us. If this is his first book he has made a brilliant opening.—Rochester Union.

The story is marked with a good deal of humor and keen perception of character.—Boston Journal.

"Garret Van Horn" is not a sensation novel. It is a picture of every-day life among the middle and upper classes in New-York at the present day.—Scottish American.

AT A MEETING OF THE LATE ATTACHES of the Department of Finance, held at the Astor House this day, the following preamble and resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, The wisdom of a Divine Providence has suddenly called from among us Hon. Robert T. Haws; and

Whereas, For the past four years we have held positions under his administration of the Finance Department of the City of New-York, where we have had the opportunity of becoming fully and intimately acquainted with his virtues and abilities; we, therefore, feel it our sorrowful privilege and duty to place on record our testimony as to his kindness and courtesy in all our relations with him.

Resolved, That in heartfelt sorrow we receive the intelligence of the decease of Robert T. Haws, late Comptroller of this City, who has been taken from our midst in the full vigor of his intellect and usefulness.

Resolved, That while we bow with humble submission to the decree of a Divine Providence, we deeply deplore the loss of a dearly beloved friend, and we have the melancholy satisfaction of recording our testimony to his noble character, high-toned honor, warm and generous heart, and many endearing social qualities.

Resolved, That we sincerely condole with his numerous relatives and friends in the irreparable loss of such a man as Robert T. Haws, whom to know was to honor and esteem.

Resolved, That in respect to his memory as a pure and upright public officer with whom we have been associated for the past four years, we will attend his funeral in a body.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions, properly engrossed and attested by the officers of this meeting, be presented to the family of the deceased.

The meeting then, in compliance with an invitation from the officers of the Finance Department, adjourned, and proceeded in a body to the Comptroller's Office, and formed a meeting, at which the following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, That we heartily concur in the preamble and resolutions passed by the former attaches of the Finance Department, under the late Robert T. Haws, at a meeting held at the Astor House this day.

Resolved, That in consideration of the many virtues and eminent ability of the lamented deceased, and concurring in the numerous expressions of public regard and esteem for him, we will meet at the Westchester House, corner of Bowery and Broome-st., at 2 o'clock P. The meeting being organized, the Chairman made some brief and appropriate remarks on the character and virtues of the deceased. On motion of Caspar C. Childs, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, It has pleased the Great Disposer of events to remove from the scenes of his earthly usefulness the Hon. Robert T. Haws, late Comptroller, who had endeared himself to his fellow-citizens by his worth of character, kindness of heart and firmness of purpose; whose conduct, whether in the pursuit of business, in the private walks of life, or in stations of official responsibility, was distinguished by the strictest integrity and animated by the most devoted and enlightened zeal in everything conducive to the public welfare.

Resolved, That we, the Commissioners, Deputies, Assessors and Clerks attached to this office, deplore with sincere and heartfelt sorrow, the loss of an estimable citizen and a kind friend, whose actions, ever candid and open, were the reflection of honorable motives and singleness of purpose; whose firmness was tempered with gentleness and good-will to all, and whose career as Comptroller of our City, has marked him as a compeer of the worthiest who have adorned that position.

Resolved, That as a token of respect and esteem for the memory of the deceased, a copy of these resolutions be tendered to the family, signed by the officers of this meeting, and that we attend the funeral in a body.

A CARD.

"THE ABBOT COLLECTION OF PAINTINGS."—The principal part of this celebrated collection is to be sold, THIS EVENING, at the Derby Gallery. It embraces originals and copies of great value.

The original "Washington Series," by Stearns, representing the Father of his Country as a Statesman, a Warrior, a Farmer and a Christian, is truly a work of national interest.

The copies of Coles' great masterpiece, "The Voyage of Life," by Boutelle, bears a noble certificate from Durand, Church, Kensett, Rossiter, Hicks, Cropsey, and Noble, the biographer of Cole, attesting the fidelity and excellence of the copy.

Mr. Abbot has a favorite plan of providing his institution with copies of the chef d'œuvres of the great masters, to form the standard of taste, in esthetic culture, on the best models.

For this purpose he engaged the Chevalier Chatelain, the most eminent copyist of modern times, to reproduce twelve of the most celebrated paintings in Rome. The Transfiguration of Raphael, the Aurora of Guido, Raphael's Madonna di Foligno, the Annunciation of Guido and of Carlo Mavatti, the Sybil of Domenichino, the Madonnas of Murillo and of Raphael.

Each copy, by stipulation, before it was accepted, was to receive the written certificate of Prof. Agricola, President of the Society of the Belles Artes in Italy, and of the Government officer having charge of the works of art in Rome, that the work was worthy, as a copy, to be taken to an institution in the New World, to be studied and enjoyed by those who could never see the originals.

Better copies, probably, never crossed the ocean.

SIMEON DRAPER, Auctioneer.

SCRANTON COAL AT AUCTION.

OFFICE OF THE DELAWARE, LACKAWANNA AND WESTERN RAILROAD COMPANY, NO 35 WILLIAM-ST., NEW-YORK, March 16, 1863. }

In continuation of the system of auction sales, this Company will offer at public auction, on WEDNESDAY, the 25th day of March, 1863, at 12 o'clock, at the room now used as the Merchants' Exchange, Nos. 26 and 28 Exchange-place, corner of William-st., by SIMEON DRAPER, Auctioneer,

THIRTY THOUSAND TONS OF FRESH MINED SCRANTON COAL,

embracing all the usual sizes, and deliverable at their depot, Elizabethport, N. J., after the 1st of April next. They will repeat such auction sales on or about the 20th of each month, during the year 1863.

The sale will be positive. Each lot put up will be sold to the highest bidder; no bids, in any form whatever, being made for account of, or on behalf of the Company.

Fifty cents per ton, in bankable funds, to be paid at the time and place of sale, and the balance in like funds, on receiving the order for the coal, which must be called for within ten days thereafter, and the coal taken away within thirty days from the day of sale, unless navigation is obstructed. Buyers who wish, however, can have an additional thirty days for taking the delivery of their purchases, by making a further deposit of fifty cents per ton, within the ten days above specified. Interest, at 7 per cent. per annum, will in such case be charged on the balance, from the time stipulated for payment until paid; and twenty-five cents per ton to cover the expense of stocking the coal,—both to be paid on delivery of order.

The other conditions of sale will be substantially those hitherto accepted by all purchasers, by private contract, of coal deliverable at Elizabethport, so far as applicable. The coal will be delivered direct from the cars on their arrival from the mines, when practicable—otherwise from the stock. These conditions will be modified to meet the wants of ocean steamers, whose arrival cannot be definitely fixed.

With a reliable avenue from the Lackawanna and Wyoming Valleys to tide-water, open every day in the year, (Sundays excepted,) requiring but 12 hours for the transit of the trains, the advantages of such sales, and the superior condition in which the coal will be delivered, are so apparent, they cannot doubt this mode of selling will commend itself to the favorable consideration of both the trade and consumers, whose coöperation is respectfully invited.

C. R. ROBERT, President.

CAUTION TO LADIES.

Madame RESTELL, Female Physician, No. 162 Chambers-street, deems it her duty to caution ladies against impostors, who appropriate her advertisements, word for word, merely substituting some ignorant and wholly irresponsible person as "Madame."

These persons have spurious "Female Monthly Pills" and other poisonous compounds to deprive the unwary or the easily duped, as well of their means as of their health.

That ladies may avoid these impositions, Madame Restell feels called upon to give this caution.

MRS. MAXWELL, M. D.,

No. 6 Greene-st., New-York, takes pleasure in offering her services to the ladies who are suffering from irregularities, suppression, &c., (from whatever cause produced.) In order to extend her sphere of usefulness, she has taken a large house, regardless of expense, and fitted it up as a lying-in hospital, where the most perfect confidence is observed, and all the comforts of a sick room are received. Also, Female Monthly Pills, price $1. And where the children can always be adopted.

SURE CURE—BY DR. POWERS, SUCCESSfully consulted with Dr. WARD, No. 12 Laight-st. Conducted on the plan of the Hospital des Veneriens, Paris, where those afflicted with any form of private disease can receive prompt treatment, without risk of exposure, viz.: Syphilis, gonorrhœa, gleet, strictures, ulcers, tumors, cancers, secondary and constitutional syphilis, diseases of the kidneys, &c., &c. Thirty years of extensive practice, exclusively devoted to the treatment of those complaints enable us to effect cures in cases where others of less experience have failed. Dr. Powers' Essence of Life restores the vigor of youth in four weeks. This marvelous agent restores manhood to the most shattered constitutions—physical disqualifications, impediments to marriage, thereby speedily cured. The men to consult, Drs. PRIVATE DISEASES CURED IN THE shortest possible time, by DR. WARD & CO., No. 12 Laight-st., near Canal, without the use of Mercury, loss of time or change of diet. Dr. WARD, from the hospitals of London, Paris and Edinburgh, is the discoverer of the only certain and reliable remedies for diseases of a private character. In 28 years practice he has cured more cases of Secret Diseases and Wrong Treatment than all others combined. I can and will cure you in less time and expense than any one can or will, and those who have been robbed of their money and health, call; it will take but little money and time to restore you. If you have been unfortunate, call at once. By his special experience in this much-neglected branch of medical science, he is enabled to guarantee a cure in the most complicated cases. Recent cases of Gonorrhea or Syphilis cured in a few days, without change of diet or hindrance from business. Secondary Syphilis—the last vestige eradicated without the use of Mercury. Involuntary emissions stopped in a short time. Sufferers from impotency, or loss of sexual power, restored to full vigor in a few weeks. Permanently and speedily cured by a new treatment. Persons at a distance, failing to receive prompt treatment elsewhere, may get a permanent cure effected by writing a full diagnosis of their case, addressed to DR. WARD, No. 12 Laight-st., the only place. Call, send or write.

NEW AND SPLENDID SCENERY.

Novel and startling effects.

MISS LAURA KEENE	as	The Erring Wife
Mr. Chas. Wheatleigh	as	The Deserted Husband
Mr. Chas. Walcot, Jr	as	The Deceiver
Mr. Peters	as	The English Tiger

Other characters by the company.

SPECIAL NOTICE.—As this FAREWELL SEASON must be brief, Miss KEENE has determined to produce A NEW PLAY ALMOST EVERY WEEK.]

From the New-York Times.

The interest of the piece depends almost exclusively in the careful delineation of two characters, Jessie and John McLane, the miner and his wife. In the treatment of these the author has displayed a masterly knowledge of the two emotions of remorse and love. Both parts were admirably sustained. Mr. Charles Wheatleigh, a true artist in every sense of the word, left nothing whatever to be desired. Miss Keene was equally excellent. Her scene with Betsy in the second act was, in its way, a lesson to those artists who make night hideous with their unavailing howls. The remaining parts were intrusted to competent hands, and the piece was received with favor.

CENTRAL TRADES UNION

Mechanics and Workingmen to be Protected.

A Large Meeting of Employes at the Cooper Institute.

SPEECHES AND RESOLUTIONS.

FERNANDO WOOD PAYS FOR THE HALL.

Last evening a large and spirited meeting of employees, representing different branches of trade throughout the City, assembled at the Cooper Institute, for the purpose of concerting some measures by which a great trades' combination may be formed, and the workingmen of all classes protected in their rights and interests.

Mr. FERNANDO WOOD paid for the use of the hall.

The meeting was called to order by Mr. LONGENDICE, and by his nomination Mr. CHARLES MCCARTY was chosen Chairman, and Mr. J. J. FISHER, Secretary. Upon taking the chair, Mr. MCCARTY addressed the meeting as follows:

SPEECH OF MR. M'CARTY.

Mr. MCCARTY said this meeting had been called with a view of laying before them a plan for a great trades organization. The time had come for them to organize for their mutual protection. [Applause.] By such a union they could bring the influence of all trades to bear upon any one trade desiring to better its condition. It was only by such a union that the interests of labor could be protected. [Applause.] All trades would bear the expense equally, and the central organization would not expect to control the local organization. [Applause.] It was only by such a trades union that they could get the strength to demand for their labor a fair remuneration, and more than the paltry pittance that was paid them now. [Applause.] It had been the policy of the employers to pit one nationality against another. The Germans and Irish ought to be animated by the same principles. There should be a union of nationalities. [Applause.] Should it be said that they who could build palaces and adorn them—who build ships, and man them, and navigate them, and guide them to all parts of the world—should it be said that such men had not intellect to organize a great trades organization? ["No, no."] It was labor that produced wealth, and without labor this country would be a wilderness. [Applause.] It was time they should understand their own interests, and unite in a grand union trades society, that should give them power which they could never obtain by being divided. [Applause.] Even the farmer paid only a few dollars to produce the vast wealth of his farm. [Applause.] In conclusion he called upon Mr. FISHER to read the resolutions. The resolutions were read as follows, and unanimously adopted:

Whereas, The depreciation of the currency, and other evils incidental to our present struggle, have caused a fearful increase in the cost of living; and

Whereas, The present rates of wages received by the working classes for their labor are entirely inadequate for the support of themselves and families; and

Whereas, In the opinion of this meeting, the depressed condition of the several trades results from the absence of the fundamental principle of organization which past experience has demonstrated to be indispensable to conserve the general interest; therefore,

Resolved, That we recommend all trades to proceed to organize forthwith.

Resolved, That this meeting being duly impressed with the necessity of organization, as applied to all bodies separately, for the better protection of their interests do hereby summon all who subsist by labor to proceed to the establishment of a League or Union, composed of delegates from all local organizations, with a view to the better security of the rights of labor. Be it further

Resolved, That we pledge ourselves to use all our energies in consolidating and perfecting such a Union, and in carrying out the provisions set forth in the foregoing resolutions.

Resolved, That to carry out the foregoing resolutions, all organized trades, mechanics' and workingmen's associations in this City and vicinity, are cordially invited to send their delegates each to represent their several organizations in a general Convention, to be held in Military Hall, No. 193 Bowery, on the 31st of March, at 7½ P. M.

MR. CROME SPEAKS FOR THE TAILORS.

Mr. CROME said it was his proud privilege, in 1861, to stand beneath the magnificent transept of the Crystal Palace in London, but the issue of this meeting was far more important to them than any collection of the industry of the world. He thanked God that men of New-York had dared to come out, with a spirit that would knock even at the door of Congress, and compel Congress to hear them. The honest artisans of to-day, feeling that tyranny pressing him down, confronts the Shylock of to-day, and asks that the scales of injustice should be stricken from his hands. He represented a body of men who had marched in a body to this hall, and were now on a strike against one of the meanest Shylocks of New-York. [Applause.] Before they would submit they would bring the Shylock to his knees. [Great applause.] How should they do it? There was an innate majesty in man; man in the individual is great, but man in the aggregate, in union, is better. [Applause.] The craft, cunning and ingenuity of those against whom they contended was great. They would recollect that at the great Union-square meeting, the cutters and tailors of Messrs. ———, of Broadway, were paraded in Broadway. Oh, what was the loyalty of the men who paraded under that banner? Those very employers had obtained a Government contract, and all would remember the exposers of the shoddy contract. [Great laughter and cheers.] Now this same firm had refused to pay the demands of the workingmen. The men were wanted, and had obtained the signatures of over one hundred merchants to the bills of prices submitted by the workmen. [Applause.] There were honest men as well as Shylocks in New-York. [Applause.] The tyrant capital asserted that all combinations of Trades Unions were an attempt at revolution, and that the men who who want higher wages were thieves. But they would show, by harmony and good conduct, that they were deserving, and that it was only by craft, capital, cunning and chicanery that they could be defeated. [Applause.] In conclusion, he counseled that they should combine, and sustain one another—first by organizing in each trade, and then consolidating for mutual support. He trusted that, if there was true sympathy in this meeting, the men now on strike would be sustained until the despicable Shylocks complied with their just demands.

MR. CADY SPEAKS FOR THE PAINTERS.

Mr. CADY said that with this organization and this movement, politics were to have nothing to do. [Applause.] Some of the causes of their present condition he would enumerate, over-taxed and under-worked as they were. They were over-taxed, because they paid all the taxes. They were over-worked, because the hours of labor were too long. What opportunity was there for improving their minds, or of attending to those little duties demanded in every household? The cause of their present troubles was no doubt the war, and the best way they could relieve themselves was by seeing the war ended. He had no doubt that they were loyal, and had, like himself, taken an oath to support the Union. He did not care by whom the Government was administered, so long as it was administered, so long as it was administered in justice and good faith. Such a war must bear hard upon the working man, but some legislation might bear heavier upon one class of the community than another; of this class of legislation he thought the conscription bill was a sample, because the working man had not a chance to get out of it, (great applause and a few hisses.) He would also speak of another thing, whatever might be the consequence, and that was the financial measures which had been adopted. The workingman suffered by the inflation of the currency. That inflation had defrauded the workingman of one-half his pay. [Applause.] Ask the widows and orphans if this was not the case. [Applause.] The workingman must protect himself by legal means and by no other. [Applause.] The workingmen to be strong must be united, and the object of this meeting was to form a great trades union that would extend over the whole country. Were they ready to commence that Union now? ["Yes, yes."] The politicians would no doubt interfere with them, but, that being over, they could go on united and a happy people. [Applause.]

MR. BALDWIN SPEAKS FOR THE BOOKBINDERS.

As a workingman, and unaccustomed to public speaking, he felt somewhat diffident in addressing the meeting. Labor had rights all would concede but it was difficult for the laborer to find out those rights. Capital could always serve its own interest, and compel them to labor for just such terms as it made. It had been said that a firm in the City had refused to comply to the just demands of their employes, but a united movement of the workingmen would compel those haughty contractors to accede to the just terms demanded. [Applause.] Now, in times of civil war, which is making many wealthy and increasing taxation, the laboring men could not be guarded in their rights without a strong combination. [Applause.] Let the various organizations send delegates to a Central Union. Like the old man with the bundle of sticks, unity would be found to embrace strength. [Applause.] In England it was the custom to imprison men unless they acceded to the abject terms of the aristocracy. But the workingmen became triumphant. [Applause.] If they did not have courage to organize, they did not deserve to succeed. [Great applause.]

MR. BUCKLIN SPEAKS FOR THE HATTERS.

Mr. BUCKLIN said that they might in vain seek to find the index of greater intellect in any audience than was seen in this assembly. Their opponents who charged them with Utopian schemes were only too fearful that they would accomplish their ends. [Applause.] They had only to will it, and it would be done. [Applause.] When the strength of the workingman in the body politic was considered, the power of capital would sink into insignificance. Were they prepared to let the base dollar of the minority rule them? [Voices—"No, no."] If they would permit that, God would destroy them. The lever that was being forged would bind their chains forever. They heard a cry for Union, but that cry came, to some extent, from men who wanted to prolong the war, that they might get the whole of capital in their breeches pockets—so that they might get all the offices in their possession. [Laughter and applause.] They wanted an organization that would defeat a national debt, for he believed a national debt was not compatible with republican institutions. [Applause.] Gov. MORGAN had in 1859 returned the number of paupers in this State at 283,000. That was because the rich had been growing richer, and the poor poorer. [Applause.] He also told them that all the money in New-York was held by 24,000 people out of a population of 850,000. There was money enough in the City to give $2,000 to every man woman and child. [Applause.]

The chairman here announced that the Society, which had marched in with music, was the street-sweepers of New-York who numbered 500, and had marched in procession to this meeting. He next introduced Mr. HARDY, of the Coach-Painters' Association.

MR. HARDINGE SPEAKS FOR THE COACHMAKERS.

It was the intention to show the workingmen of New-York that if they wished to succeed in their movement, they must organize. The Government itself would not have been in existence without complete organization. The merchants of the City protected themselves by means of a Chamber of Commerce, and wo betide any parties who infringed upon their rights, and if necessary, they could call upon the Government and get its support. Just so with the physicians and other professional gentlemen; they all had means of protection. Labor and capital should stand side by side, and justice should stand between them. [Applause.] He would recommend the working classes to study economy. [Applause.] Throw away the sensation newspapers; they had misled them long enough. If they could carry out the grand movement of organization, they would open a way to educate the working people. The time was coming when the hours of labor would be shortened. The working-man should be lifted in the social scale and put where he belonged. [Applause.] There were men in the audience who were well fitted to represent the branches of the Government, but they would never reach that point so long as the present demagogues were in power. [Applause.] The great point for them to study was education. The wealthy had colleges, and why had not the working-men colleges also? They were the legislators of the nation, and it was their own fault. [Applause.] He hoped this meeting would be the precursor of a combined and advantageous movement.

MR. PLATT SPEAKS FOR THE SHIPWRIGHTS.

Mr. PLATT said it had been his privilege to speak here on previous occasions, to men of mental as well as physical capacity. Why could not men of their capacity organize and meet as capitalists do, and control their own affairs? It is to labor that this great nation belongs. Why should not labor enjoy it? Why not stand side by side with the man who said they were merely the filling in of society. The capitalist speculated directly in labor. Why should they lie down and allow the chariot wheels of capitalists to ride roughshod over them. [Applause.] These men were wonderful howlers about Christianity, and sociability and other things. The men who would degrade labor, would degrade the Deity; because he labored six days, and rested on the seventh. [Applause.] Such men would degrade even the meak and lowly Nazarine who worked for a living. [Applause.] For himself, he had trusted in politicians, but he had been sold out, as they all had been. Here were thousands who said that we would not be overridden by monarchical capital. [Great applause.] Were they not strong in intellect, and strong in physical strength? [Yes, yes.] Were they not so strong that capital could not, if they were united, affect them for one single moment. [Applause.] The remuneration of labor was not raised in comparison with the rise in price of other articles. Coal was higher, flour was higher, and clothing was higher, but the moment that labor asked for a rise it was deemed an extortion. [Applause.] Each one of them had a vote as good as that of BILL ASTOR, and if they would only elect proper men, they could have laws that would protect them. Suppose the Legislature with CALLICOTT [hisses] at its head should pronounce him and them public enemies. They might protect themselves as the colliers did, [applause.] Prince JOHN VAN BUREN and JIM BRADY thought they had the working men—but he for one did not belong to them [applause and hisses.] In conclusion he cautioned them to love freedom, die christians and be gathered to their fathers in heaven there to remain forever, [applause.]

MR. JACKSON SPEAKS FOR THE BAKERS.

He would repeat the words of the great ANDREW JACKSON: "United we stand—divided we fall," as the proper sentiment of the meeting. Who were the journeymen bakers? He was one of them. Talk about ten hours a day for bakers, they worked by the week, and some employers had said that if they had work they would keep them at it during the whole twenty-four. The laboring classes had no business to work for any sum that they could not save something from for a dull day. They wanted homes as well as wages. They had said to their employers, give us twelve hours—but they would not do it. At a meeting held some time ago in reference to the time movement, to which the boss bakers were invited to attend, only three of them appeared. He concluded by advising the workingmen to drink less spirits and more water.

The President here announced on, behalf of the Cartmen's Association, that they had succeeded in breaking down the sub-contracting system. That system proposed to pay them a dollar or even six shillings a day, where they had formerly had twelve shillings. But by union and organization the cartmen had triumphed. [Applause.] In conclusion, he said all trades should come in. The cartmen did more good than any of the drones who walked Broadway without earning a sixpence. [Applause.] They had the power, if they would exercise it. Follow the example of the cartmen, and all would be well.

MR. WALFORD SPEAKS FOR THE PLASTERERS.

Mr. WOLFORD spoke of the necessity of devoting at least one evening to labor, and to be relieved of politics. The man who had learned the science of sweeping a broom round a lamp post was to be represented here. At the meeting in the Bowery there would be the grandest spectacle ever seen on this Continent—delegates from all the existing trade organizations—all except ministers, lawyers and doctors. [Applause and laughter.] He thought that the three hundred men who would comprise that organization, would do more good and pass better laws for them than ever had been done in Washington or Albany. [Applause.] He deprecated the necessity of strikes, and in conclusion urged them to send delegates to the meeting next Tuesday evening.

MR. LANGENDICK SPEAKS FOR THE COOPERS.

He urged upon the laborers to stand up for their rights, on the principle that the laborer was worthy of his hire. No trade was sufficiently strong to sustain itself, and all should combine. He concluded by stating the object of the meeting to be held next Tuesday.

The meeting adjourned at a little after 10 o'clock.

Outside Meeting.

At about 8½ o'clock, and when the hall was crowded to suffocation, an intelligent son of CRISPIN gave vent to his feelings to an immense crowd outside, in the following:

MR. PATRICK M'GRATH'S SPEECH.

He said—

GENTLEMEN AND BROTHER WORKMEN: The tyranny of the New-York bosses is worse than was that of England toward Ireland when she robbed her of the Union; and when the great Liberator, O'CONNELL, endeavored to free her, and gathered his legion hosts around him at Clontarf, Conciliation Hall, Mullaghaust, and Tara Hill, or Tara of the Kings, he was persecuted. [Applause.] These Yankee, and Irish and English bosses may try to rob us of our rights, but he would say to them as O'CONNELL said to his millions:

> "Hereditary bondsmen, know ye not,
> Who would be free, themselves must strike the blow."
> [Great applause.]

The Strikes.

A BETTER FEELING MANIFESTED.

The spirit which some of our Copperheaded citizens have endeavored to infuse into the channels of labor, has of late manifested itself in symptoms dangerous alike to the peace and quiet of our community and the best interests of those most disaffected. Within the last day or two, however, a more sensible and kindly feeling seems to have come over the minds and hearts of those whose bread and butter are somewhat interested; and, although in certain departments of labor, strikes and such like movements exist, the great body of workingmen see the folly of a factious course and are using courteous argument where at first they threatened force.

At the

HUDSON RIVER RAILROAD

Freight depot there was a great excitement yesterday morning. Nearly one hundred laborers congregated there, and declared their determination not to resume work till their wages should be advanced. They stated they had hitherto received nine shillings per day, but that being insufficient to support themselves and their families, owing to the high prices of living, clothing, and advanced rents, they had agreed to demand twelve shillings. The men were orderly, but some of them declared that if any laborer worked at the former rate, he would "pay dearly" for the act.

Mr. MOUNTFORD, one of the gentlemen having charge at the depot, learning the circumstances, repaired to the scene. The crowd of laborers soon gathered round him, and in a voice full of excitement, he informed them that he would not employ them. His remarks were answered by cries of "Pay us, then," "Give us a month's wages," "We'll have our rights," &c.

Mr. MOUNTFORD then instructed a foreman to hire other men, and said he would see that they should be protected. When his decision reached the laborers it seemed to occasion the greatest excitement among them and they threatened to prevent other men from taking their places. Before noon, gangs of white men were employed to take their places at the old price, and a large body of police of the Fifth Precinct protected the new laborers while at work. The crowd, however, finding themselves unable to make any successful resistance to the movement, lingered for some time quietly around the scene in conversation with each other; they denounced the rival laborers, and made many threats against them.

At 2 o'clock a group of the strikers assembled at the terminus of the road, and stated that Mr. DE WITT, the gentleman in charge of the Warren-street freight house, had started on a mission to employ negroes to take their places at $1 per day. A short time afterward the individual announced as Mr. DE WITT appeared, leading about half a dozen of able-bodied negroes, who, under his direction, worked with the new white laborers, in removing freight. This circumstance created some excitement among those who had assembled at the depot, and some of them threatened that if the greater portion of the strikers had not been absent, they would have prevented colored men taking their situations.

At last accounts, no compromise had been effected, the Company stating that they had but recently, of their own accord, raised the rate from $1 to $1 12 per diem, and the laborers insisting that the Company is illiberal, and should be compelled to pay $1 50.

There was a slight ruffle also at the dock of the

in consequence of disaffection on the part of the men. About two hundred of the laborers demanded, on Saturday last, twenty-five cents per hour for their work; but on Monday they returned to their employment at the old prices. The men employed at this pier are, for the most part, late immigrants from Ireland, who come direct from the Castle Garden. An instant's survey of them would show that they are unskilled in dock duty, and are principally aged men. They receive one shilling an hour for their work, and at that rate make from $7 to $9 per week. As they become proficient, they are given $35 monthly. A number of them have been employed by Mr. CURRAN, the foreman, owing to recommendatory letters from clergymen and prominent merchants, who certified to their impoverished condition. They have now all resumed work.

QUIET IS RESTORED AT THE ERIE ROAD.

A considerable number of laborers who joined in the strike of Monday at the Erie Railroad Piers, have resumed work at the rates demanded. The foreman, however, determinedly refused to take about sixty of the men back, and the others were protected in their labor this afternoon by a large force of police from the Fifth Precinct. Several colored men lounged around the dock—no unusual circumstance, however—but the laborers who were not reemployed watched their movements closely, apparently under the impression that Mr. MARTIN, the foreman of the Duane-street dock, might employ them to take the places of the other laborers whom he had refused to employ.

WAITERS

met at Room No. 24 Cooper Institute on Monday evening, for the purpose of forming a Protective Association. A preamble and resolutions were adopted, providing for the formation of a permanent organization, to be called "The Waiters' Protective and Benevolent Association of the City and County of New-York," the object being to protect their rights as waitingmen, and to the relief of its members in case of sickness, and the burial of their remains when dead; no head-waiter to be considered a member of the Association while acting in such capacity. The Chairman stated that waiters in restaurants and private waiters should be considered in the same position as hotel waiters, and be eligible for membership accordingly.

LOCAL POLITICS.

Meeting of the Mozart Hall General Committee.

RESOLUTIONS DENOUNCING THE ADMINISTRATION—A MASS MEETING TO BE HELD AT COOPER INSTITUTE—SPEECH OF FERNANDO WOOD.

The Democratic General Committee of Mozart Hall held a special meeting at the hall last evening, BENJAMIN RAY, Chairman of the Committee.

There was a very full attendance of members. The Chairman announced that the meeting had been called for the purpose of hearing and taking action upon the report of the Committee on Resolutions.

Dr. R. B. BRADFORD, Chairman of the Committee, then read a series of resolutions asserting that the United States are a Union of original, indestructible and sovereign political communities called States; that the liberties of our people are at this time menaced and endangered by Federal usurpations, and can only be preserved to us by the energetic action of State authority. That the masses of the American people throughout this whole land are now offering up their daily and heartfelt prayers for peace, and demanding that this most unnecessary, most ineffectual, most devastating and most cruel war of modern times shall be brought to a close. That the policy of war has had a fair trial for two long, miserable, bloody years, and has failed to bring us, to all appearances, a single step nearer to the restoration of the Union. That the Conscription bill recently passed through Congress, and which is claimed by the Federal Government to be a law, is, in our judgment, grossly and palpably unconstitutional in its provisions; also denouncing the banking system enacted by Congress—the enactment of Congress which creates ABRAHAM LINCOLN an absolute and despotic monarch in all but name, declaring that they would use their utmost influence to prevent the payment of a single dollar of the money of the people, wrung by taxation out of their hard earnings, which shall be appropriated from the Federal Treasury for the emancipation of negroes; denouncing, likewise, the Loyal Leagues; congratulating Democrats everywhere on recent victories, and ending by announcing a public mass-meeting at the Cooper Institute on Friday evening, the 3d day of April prox., to give expression to the opinion of the Democracy of this City on public affairs.

FERNANDO WOOD was called upon to speak, and was greeted with applause. He said that the adoption of the resolutions is a very significant fact—adopted by an organization of this peculiar character, representing each of 220 Election Districts in the City of New-York, by representative men, coming from every portion and section of this great City—a class of men who are law-abiding citizens, who know their duties as citizens, and intend to fulfill them; who know their rights as citizens, and intend to maintain them. What a commentary is this upon the allegation that the Democratic party of New-York have changed front or altered their position; the allegation that because a few recreant leaders who have never yet been trusted in any representative capacity by the Democratic party, because they gave the lie to all their past professions of political principles, have seen proper to falter in their duty, that the great Democratic party of this State, forsooth, were also to prove recreant and give the lie to their beliefs, their proofs of patriotic duty to their country and to their past history. We are for maintaining the Constitution of the United States inviolate—for maintaining the solidarity, the unity and integrity of this Union intact. We are for making the men in power conform to the laws and the Constitution, before we are required to conform to the statutes which are no law, and are inconsistent with the Constitution. We are for the observance of law; we are for maintaining this Government; our fears and apprehensions are that the men in power intend to destroy the Government. Peace is the only way to restore the Union; the party in power are opposed to the Union. I am glad that the lion-hearted Democracy of New-York are to have an opportunity to give the lie to men like JOHN VAN BUREN and JAMES T. BRADY. [Groans.] Sir, loyal leagues—loyal? There is no such word as loyalty in the Republican dictionary. Loyalty is a monarchical derivation. Unconditionally loyal—what means it? That the king can do no wrong. [That's it.] It is an European extract—no loyalty for me; I know no such word. There are but two parties in this country: the party that is for sustaining the Administration right or wrong, and the party that is against that. There is no such thing as "war Democrats." I hold that any man who supports the policy of this Administration cannot be a Democrat. I say further, that there is no such thing as a conservative Republican—it is a contradiction of terms. One of the newspapers of the day has had a series of articles threatening every man who shall dare stand up in the Democratic party and denounce the high-handed acts of the Administration. Sir, I am a very bad man, but, Sir, bad as I am I cannot be bought, and I will not be bullied. [Great applause.] I know, Sir, that their threats will fall harmless at my feet. But my life would be welcome to-day—it would be but a poor sacrifice if thereby the lives of the thousands that are sacrificed could be spared, and I could thus bring peace and unity to my beloved country. [Applause.]

Judge MCCUNN was called for, and in response said that he concurred in every sentiment uttered in the resolutions.

TERRIBLE STEAM-TUG EXPLOSION.

Five Men Killed---Four of the Bodies Missing.--Proceedings upon the Coroner's Inquest.

THE STEAMER TOTALLY DESTROYED.

About 4½ o'clock yesterday morning a terrific explosion occurred on board the steam-tug D. E. Crary, lying at the foot of Spring-street, North River. The noise produced by the explosion was heard for a long distance, and such was the violence of the concussion, that the lamps along West and the adjoining streets, were extinguished. Fragments of the boat were thrown into the air in every direction, some of which were subsequently found five blocks distant from the scene of the disaster.

Five men are known to have lost their lives by the explosion, viz:

BENJAMIN SMITH, engineer.
JOHN ZIMMERMAN, carpenter.
JOHN JOHNSON, a deck hand.
JOHN STUDOR, the cook of the boat.
JAMES BERGER, a deck hand.

The latter was rescued immediately by Capt. DICKSON and his men, (Twenty-eighth Precinct,) and taken to the New-York Hospital. Everything which medical skill could devise was done for him, but it was found that he had sustained serious internal injuries, and, after lingering in great agony until a late hour last night, he expired. The bodies of the others have not been recovered. The presumption is that they went down with the tug, which sank very shortly after the explosion, or that they were blown to pieces, and the fragments scattered in all directions.

The cause of the explosion is yet involved in mystery. Capt. FREDERICK ANTHONY, who had charge of the steamer at the time, makes the following statement:

STATEMENT OF CAPT. ANTHONY.

A few minutes before the accident occurred, he went on board of her. Steam had already been got up, and she was about to start on a cruise down the bay. He went down to the cabin for the purpose of changing his boots, and while in the act of doing so he heard the noise of the explosion. Immediately he felt the steam coming upon him in great quantities. To save himself he put his hands to his face, and in this manner he managed, with much difficulty, to make his way to the deck. When he arrived there he found no person to whom he could speak, and the boat was rapidly sinking. He at once jumped overboard and by means of swimming he escaped with his life, though very much scalded on his hands, arms and face by the escaping steam.

THE CORONER'S INQUEST.

Coroner WILDEY, immediately after being notified of the catastrophe, proceeded to the Twenty-eighth Precinct Station-house, where he impanneled a jury. The place of the accident was then visited by them, and such testimony as could be taken, under the circumstances, was given to the Jury. The proceedings were then adjourned until 9 o'clock on Friday morning next, for the purpose of enabling the Police to obtain the testimony which will explain the cause of the disaster.

DESCRIPTION OF THE BOAT.

The D. E. Crary has been running only since the 19th day of January last, and is therefore comparatively a new boat. She was about 100 tons burden, and was built by Messrs. LAWRENCE & FOAKES, of Brooklyn. The engines, which were of the kind termed "high pressure," were manufactured by CAULDWELL & Co., of Newburgh, N. Y., and were warranted to carry 100 pounds of steam. They were thoroughly tested before being placed in the boat, and pronounced to be perfect in every respect. The Coroner's inquest will doubtless develop the true cause of the explosion. By some persons who ought to know, it is said to have been caused by the low state of water in the boiler. Steam was got up at 2 o'clock A. M., and the boat lay at her pier until after 4 o'clock.

The explosion was the most terrific of any which has occurred in this City for a long time past. The boat itself was utterly demolished. Pieces of the boiler were picked up a long distance from the scene of the disaster, and a large portion of the woodwork of the machinery was found on a shed twenty rods off. A piece of iron weighing 400 pounds was thrown over a hundred feet from the tug, and lodged in the rigging of a ship lying at an adjoining pier, and the mast of another vessel was broken off by the falling fragment.

LATER.—The body of JOHN ZIMMERMAN was recovered at 6½ o'clock last evening, and brought to the Twenty-eighth Precinct Station-house. None of the others have yet been found.

Court of Appeals.

ALBANY, Monday, March 24.

COURT OF APPEALS CALENDAR FOR MARCH 25, 1863.—Nos. 3, 4, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12 and 13.

THE FORTIETH-STREET WIFE MURDER.—Coroner RANNEY held an inquest yesterday upon the body of CATHARINE O'MARA, whose murder by her husband was reported in our columns yesterday morning. The testimony before the jury substantially tallied with the report which we gave. The jury, without leaving their seats, found that deceased died of "wounds inflicted with a razor in the hands of her husband, TIMOTHY O'MARA." Answering the usual questions, O'MARA said to Coroner RANNEY that he could recollect little that had occurred; he knew that he had taken a razor from the mantelpiece, but subsequently his memory failed until he saw his wife dying, with her throat cut; his wife had always been sober and affectionate, and there had been nothing in her conduct to provoke him to the commission of the crime. The Coroner thereupon committed O'MARA to the Tombs.

HUMAN NATURE—HOW TO READ IT.—This power is possessed by some in a high degree, and they can read the motives of strangers at a glance. Others are deficient, and are easily imposed upon. Indians usually have it large, and they are suspicious when there is the slightest reason. One man is a natural "detective;" another is not—hence, one is a policeman by nature. This faculty is thus recognized in Scripture:

"Behold. I know your thoughts, and the devices which ye wrongfully imagine against me.—Job xxi., 27. There are no such things done as thou sayest, but thou feignest them out of thine own heart.—Neh. vi., 8. Counsel in the heart of man is like deep water; but a man of understanding will draw it out.—Prov. xx., 5."

TO RENT.—THE WINDERMERE HOUSE, Greenwood Lake, Orange County, N. Y., from 1st of April, 1863, to a qualified and responsible tenant only, "who knows how to keep a hotel." The house has been newly and handsomely refurnished, and in consequence of its rapid advancement in popular favor, and the liberal patronage extended to it the past Summer, the proprietor is now making extensive additions and improvements to the hotel, which will present a façade of 225 feet to the lake, with double piazza. The place is celebrated for its salubrious, invigorating atmosphere, excellent fishing, boating, &c., and is supplied with an abundance of fruit, good garden, and every necessary outbuilding. If preferred, the farm-land, from 50 to 200 acres, could be rented with the hotel, or sold on accommodating terms to a satisfactory purchaser. For terms, apply to the proprietor, personally, for a few days, or refer to Maj. J. HENRY CALDWELL, A. S. CALDWELL, and others, No. 24 Pine-st., New-York.

READ AND REFLECT.

Make sure of HEALTH. "But how?" you ask;
We answer, 'tis an easy task.
Strengthen the STOMACH, and sustain
The NERVES, the servants of the brain.
The LIVER keep in active play
And regulate, from day to day.
Each organ aid, on Nature's plan,
Brace and refresh the INNER MAN,
And like a watch, that's kept in chime
By constant care, with railroad time,
The system's tone and strength renew,
And thereby cheer the spirits, too.
"How," you inquire, "can this be done?
This Victory o'er Disease be won?"
"HOSTETTER'S BITTERS," we reply,
Is HEALTH'S SUPREME PROTECTION—TRY!

As a means of regenerating the disordered and enfeebled system, regulating every function of the internal organs, reviving the depressed spirits, invigorating the constitution, and prolonging life, no medicinal preparation, either of the past or the present time, has been so completely and universally successful as HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS.

Against the vapors foul prepare,
That fever-taint the heavy air.
Drink not unmixed the water found
In prairies, woods, or marshy ground.
If sedentary toil you ply,
Nature you must assist—or die—
For when debarred from exercise
For artificial aid she cries.
Medicine's grand purpose and intent
Is threatened evil to prevent:
And if you'd be relieved or spared
From ills that crush the unprepared,
Hostetter's Bitters use—for note
They are the SUREST ANTIDOTE.

To set at defiance the miasma of unhealthy soils, the poison of unwholesome water, the effluvia of crowded workrooms and factories, and the baneful influence of sedentary employments, it is only necessary to be forearmed with HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS.

Dyspepsia's pangs, that rack and grind
The body, and depress the mind;
Agues, that as they go and come,
Make life a constant martyrdom;
Colics and dysenteric pains,
'Neath which the strong man's vigor wanes;
Bilious complaints, those tedious ills,
Ne'er conquered yet by drastic pills;
Dread diarrhea that cannot be
Cured by destructive mercury;
Slow constitutional decay
That brings Death nearer, day by day;
Nervous prostration, mental gloom--
Heralds of madness or the tomb;
For these—though mineral nostrums fail—
Means of Relief at least we hail,
HOSTETTER'S BITTERS—medicine sure,
Not to prevent, alone, but cure.

In dyspepsia, fever and ague, bilious complaints, constitutional and nervous debility, constipation, seasickness, spasms, and in all complaints of Man or Woman, proceeding from casual or inherent weakness of the body, the one great remedy and restorative is HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS.

To wanderers on sea or land,
From Polar shore to Tropic strand;
To households lone, in regions new,
And dwellers in great cities, too;
To soldiers in camp, fort and field,
Who need against disease a shield;
To miners, California bound,
And tillers of wet, marshy ground;
To feeble wives of fragile mold,
To young and middle-aged, and old;
To those in health, who would enjoy
Heaven's best gifts without alloy;
To all the strengthless, weak and pale,
Who droop, yet know not what they ail,
Hostetter's Bitters we present
As Health's most potent element.

If there is any value in public opinion, or any weight in medical testimony, the very best and safest Tonic, Corrective and Alterative now before the world is HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS.

Sold by respectable druggists in all parts of the world.
